'34 FARM INCOME RISES 668 MILLION AS OUTPUT DROPS

Drouth and Federal Control Cut Production 22 Per Cent But Higher Prices Boost Return About 16 Per Cent.

INCREASE OVER '32 NEARLY 2 BILLIONS

Cotton and Cottonseed Yield $756,420,000 Against $690,526,000 for Previous Year.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Paradoxical totals of the smallest crop production in more than 30 years and the highest farm income in four years were reported today by the department of agriculture.

The summary of production during 1934 showed a farm output 32 per cent less than the average of the past 10 years, and 22 per cent under last year. Many crops returned the lowest yields since 1880 because of drouth and the production control programs of the farm administration.

The total value of all crops, at the same time, was reported at $756,420,000, compared with $690,526,000 last year and $756,420,000 in 1932, an increase in excess of 16 per cent.

By adding in the $552,000,000 in benefit payments made by the AAA, the figure was increased to $5,334,626,000.

The acreage harvested this year was 288,007,610 acres against 329,157,880 for last year and 339,527,880 two years ago.

Cotton production, the smallest since 1880, with the exception of that of 1932, is valued at $690,526,000 for lint and $154,100,000 for cottonseed, as compared with $611,743,000 for lint and $78,783,000 for seed last year, and $571,840,000 for lint and $55,035,000 for seed two years ago.

Cotton production this year, showing effect of the acreage curtailment program, is 9,731,000 bales and the acreage 27,618,000 acres, compared with 13,047,000 bales and 29,978,000 acres last year, and 13,001,000 bales and 35,939,000 acres two years ago.

Cottonseed production was 4,322,000 tons, compared with 5,804,000 tons last year and 5,783,000 tons two years ago.

Production of corn, the report says, was 1,380,718,000 bushels, 41 per cent smaller than last year and 45 per cent less than the five-year average; wheat, 1,030,480,000 bushels, the smallest since 1890; oats, 528,815,000 bushels, 55 per cent less than the five-year average; grain sorghum, 34,542,000 bushels, 61 per cent below 1932; sugar beets, 7,627,000 tons, 31 per cent less than last year; barley, 118,920,000 bushels, the smallest since 1900; tobacco, 1,005,662,000 pounds, 20 per cent below 1932; and cotton, 9,731,000 bales, 33 per cent less than the five-year average; and potatoes, 385,287,000 bushels, 20 per cent larger than 1932.

Largely as a result of the sharp decreases in the production of most crops and the shortage of feed for live stock, the report said, "prices of the 14 principal crops averaged 42 per cent higher on December 1 than they

Freighter's Crew of 16 Rescued in Mid-Ocean

Publisher Gannett Describes Fight of S. S. New York To Save Men as Three More Ships Stand By.

By FRANK E. GANNETT, Publisher of the Gannett Newspapers. Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.

ABOARD THE S. S. EUROPA AT SEA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—"Almost everyone aboard this big, luxuriously fitted liner crowded breathlessly against the rails tonight to witness the last drama of the sea—the rescue of the crew of 16 of the storm-lashed Norwegian freighter, the Sisto.

Bobbing precariously in the glare of the Europa's big searchlights, a lifeboat put out from the liner New York to take off the men aboard the stricken steamer.

The race of rescue ships to the side of the Sisto, in response to her call for help, has been dramatic in the extreme. Profound anxiety swept through the Europa's dining room, filled with passengers in full evening dress, as the big ship turned her prow toward the stricken freighter.

Four rescuers arrive. Her engines throbbing under forced draft, she pushed forward through terrific waves.

Noon, in the far distance, passengers and crew caught a glimpse of another ship hurrying to the scene. Then another, and still another until four vessels had encircled the helpless Sisto.

Besides the Europa, they were the New York, the Aurania, and the oil tanker Mobilio.

Great quantities of oil were poured on the sea in an effort to calm the high waves that made rescue efforts difficult.

Closer and closer the ships approached, until they were within a half mile of the Sisto. They dared approach no closer because of the high seas.

Vessel abandoned. The New York, which reached the scene ahead of the Europa, already was making ready to put its boats overboard.

The other vessels stood by, ready to lend a hand if necessary.

The Europa's big rubber boat had been made ready during the 140-mile run from its regular course, but it was not needed.

The Sisto was left in sinking condition, with one feeble light burning. The liner Europa proceeded to her port of destination, elated over the victory.

UNITED PRESS WRITER ALSO WATCHES RESCUE (Copyright, 1934, by United Press.)

The New York's hardy lifeboat crew struggled for four hours against conditions which seemed insurmountable. Time after time the frail-looking little boat was driven across the waters thick with oily foam to the side of the listing freighter—only to be driven back by waves which threatened

OFFICERS CHARGE PLOTTING BY REDS IN ARMY, NAVY

High U. S. Officials Accuse Moscow of Fostering Campaign Within Ranks of Armed Forces.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Attempts by communists to spread dissatisfaction and even mutiny and rebellion among the nation's armed forces were reported today by army and navy officers, who are causing real concern.

As a concrete remedy, they asked the house committee investigating un-American activities to approve a law permitting punishment of those who urge any soldier or sailor to "violate his oath of allegiance."

Chairman McCormack, democrat, Massachusetts, reported that various remedies were being considered by the committee but none had been agreed upon.

The communistic army-navy campaign was described by Commander V. L. Kirkman, of the navy, as carefully planned and supervised from headquarters in New York city. Other witnesses have asserted the New York headquarters took orders from Moscow.

"The present drive that is causing us concern," Kirkman testified, "takes the form of spreading subversive propaganda by organized groups among the organized forces in an endeavor to incite the personnel to dissatisfaction with the government and in some cases actual sabotage."

He submitted a number of exhibits—leaflets and pamphlets purportedly from communistic sources and circulated in the regular crowd of visitors and sailors. Kirkman gave this detailed version of one system:

"Small groups of say two men and three girls will come aboard ship with the regular crowd of visitors and sailors. Men of this group will circulate about the decks, stuffing their hands into coats, behind ventilators and so on, where members of the crew are usually found them."

"Meanwhile, the girls of the group—chosen for their good looks—will be picking out promising appearing enlisted men, and will be conversing with them about making dates with them ashore and working on them there to convert them to the 'cause' and gain a recruit within the ship's company."

First attempts to "undermine the morale of the navy," Kirkman added, were noticed in 1930. But where only a few individuals were at first, then, Kirkman said that now the activity is better organized and the agitators better trained.

"The matter where the fleet may go," Kirkman said, "we find, usually, that the agitators have arrived ahead of it."

Just before Kirkman took the stand Brigadier General Alfred T. Smith, chief of the war department intelligence service, told of the army's experiences.

"The land forces, he said, communistic propaganda sometimes is distributed by children, and not only among the regular army but also the reserve officers training corps, the national guard, citizens military training camps and the civilian conservation corps."

Smith quoted from instructions to communist organizers directing them to penetrate the armed forces and organize inside, and "enlist a few comrades directly into the army." He added, however, that army communists are in general "the least successful of all."

The house of commons approved it, with a great deal of success.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The house of lords, by a vote of 239 to 62, tonight rejected an amendment to the government's proposal of wider self-government for India, and then without division passed a motion approving the principles of the report.

Air Route Trail-Blazer Lands Here, Flies to Miami for Record Attempt

Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, famous war ace, is shown above being greeted at Candler field Tuesday by Lindsey Hopkins, Atlanta aviation enthusiast, as the noted flyer arrived here in charge of Eastern Air Lines' new giant Douglas airliner which will be put into service soon on the Chicago-Atlanta-Miami route. Next to Captain Rickenbacker are Bob Chew and C. C. Davis, co-pilots, and William Westlake and Norman Alley, Chicago newspapermen who were among those making the trail-blazing flight. Blazing the trail for the new Chicago-Atlanta-Miami route of Eastern Air Lines, Inc., Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, noted war ace, accompanied by a group of leading Chicago newspapermen, arrived here early Tuesday afternoon after a fast flight from Chicago. After a short stop for luncheon the noted flyer took off for Miami from where he plans a record run to Chicago Thursday.

One hour before a plane of Eastern Air departs on the maiden flight of the new service Thursday morning, Captain Rickenbacker and his group will start the return journey. With him will be Major E. G. Sewell and six other Miamians.

The plane left Chicago at 8:02 o'clock Tuesday morning and arrived here at 1:12 o'clock, after stopping at Louisville.

"We would have made the jump to Atlanta in four hours, including the Louisville stop, had it not been for the long delay there and adverse flying conditions all along the route," Captain Rickenbacker said.

The big plane, the same ship which recently made a transcontinental record for passenger planes by flying from coast to coast in 12 hours and 43 minutes, was piloted to Atlanta by Bob Chew and C. C. Davis, the latter an Atlantan.

"Under good flying conditions it will be possible a few years from now to fly from Chicago to Miami in seven hours or less," Captain Rickenbacker said. "As it is we will be satisfied with the eight-hour run."

The noted pilot said that Chew and Davis, who were at the dual controls, averaged 175 miles an hour on the trip down from Chicago.

Included in the party were Merrill S. Meigs, publisher of the Chicago American, and Captain Maxwell Corning, assistant publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

The visitors were met here by Lindsey Hopkins, well-known aviation enthusiast, and a large delegation of members of the Chamber of Commerce and others. Mr. Hopkins entertained with a luncheon at the airport administration building while mechanics were going over the plane.

Observers predicted Tuesday night, following the revelation that a large majority of both houses and senate members favor the plan, that it would be adopted with little or no opposition.

The governor's unqualified support of the plan was given at conference with FERA officials who had called upon him primarily to obtain his aid in a traffic campaign by which it is hoped to keep highway accidents at a minimum.

High-Speed Methods Needed To Fight Modern High-Speed Crime, Says Governor in Urging Approval by Legislature

LEGISLATIVE HEADS FAVOR PROPOSAL

Smashing at Increasing Crime in Georgia, Governor Eugene Talmadge Tuesday came out for a state highway patrol and a state police radio system. The governor expressed the hope that the January general assembly will enact into law the necessary legislation to provide the most modern weapons for the state's attack on criminals.

Speaker Rivers, Many Others Express Approval of Plan Advocated at FERA Conference.

The plan immediately drew a chorus of approval from legislative leaders all over the state who predicted its adoption at the forthcoming session.

Near-Assassination Of Hitler Is Denied

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has not been wounded, it was officially said today, nor has anyone shot at him.

Those were the denials made by officials had ready for rumors the reich leader had been near assassination.

"Ridiculous inventions," the reports were termed.

The rumor that Hitler was dead reached Berlin today almost at the same time from three such widely separated nations as Austria, Russia and Holland.

The newspaper Linzer Volksblatt of Linz, Austria, published reports, the source of which it said was "trustworthy," that a German girl recently shot and wounded Hitler.

The Marquess of Donagall, writing in Sunday's London Dispatch, chronicled reports that Hitler's plane had been attacked from the air while he was flying over east Prussia. Rumors were even rife in New York Tuesday that der fuhrer had been shot and wounded.

COTTON BARTER NEARING COLLAPSE

Hull Opposing Proposal as Being Out of Line With General Program.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A projected cotton barter deal between the United States and Germany, involving between $6,000,000 and $30,000,000, was reliably reported today to be threatened with collapse because of conflict with President Roosevelt's general world trade plans.

The president was described by one authority, who declined to be quoted by name, as withholding a final decision pending a possible revised plan.

Three of his diplomatic advisers, however, it was said by the same source, have urged that he reject the deal.

Secretary Hull was said to have reported to the chief executive that the deal was "bad trade," offering several reasons, one of which was that the transaction would dilute the "normal trade" which is seeking to be brought through reciprocal agreements.

George N. Peek, head of the Export-Import bank, and some others emphatically think otherwise.

As presented for the president's consideration the barter deal calls for purchase by Bremen cotton merchants

LELAND HARVEY HELD AT MACON

One-Time Bandit Pardon-ed by Talmadge Jailed on Chief Poole's Request.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A man, listed as Leland Harvey, convicted and sentenced to 110 years for highway robbery and given a full pardon less than a year ago by Governor Eugene Talmadge, tonight was in Bibb county jail at "the request of Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, of Atlanta."

Robert A. Moore, deputy sheriff of Bibb county, said he took Harvey into custody after receiving a telegram from the Atlanta officer, adding that Chief Poole did not say on what charges Harvey was wanted.

Officer Moore said also that "I hope to have Aubrey Smith in custody by morning."

Smith, who figured with Harvey in sensational holdups and escapes from prisons, also was pardoned by Governor Talmadge last April 20. He had been sentenced to a total of 145 years for highway robbery and other convictions.

Harvey, Officer Moore said, had been living at a hotel here for some time. He said, according to Moore, he was in Atlanta Saturday.

"So help me God," Officer Moore quoted the man as saying, "I have done nothing to betray the confidence of a friend." He did not name the friend.

"Harvey," said Moore, "was crying like a baby all the time I was talking to him. He swore he had been 'going

BUSINESS LEADERS LEANING TO 'DOLE'

Conference Expected To Back Direct Relief Instead of Work-Aid.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The "dole" form of unemployment relief was near acceptance tonight by the executive staff of American business as the best means of taking care of the jobless until they can be absorbed by industry.

Barring upsets as the result of a controversy in the drafting committee, the "joint business conference for recovery" was prepared to recommend direct relief as employed in England in contrast to work-relief as advocated by several sections of the administration.

It was possible that argument over the form of drafting the report of the conference, constituted of 80 business leaders, might negate a direct endorsement of this theory.

A vigorous disagreement in the committee on the NEA was also holding up the drafting committee which is composed of executives of the National

MINIMUM PAY URGED FOR STATE TEACHERS

Repeal Favored by Chatham
Solon; Cooper Raps Big Business.

By the Associated Press.
A minimum salary for school teachers as one step in solving Georgia's educational problem is advocated by Representative-elect Russell Twitty, of Ware county.

Twitty said that the teachers should be paid salaries in keeping with their professions, adding that schools should come "first" in the state's legislative program.

Before all other matters confronting the January session of the general assembly, he placed the school and the tax problems.

As for taxes, he said all small homes and farms should be exempted from taxation—state, county and city. Outright repeal of Georgia's home-occupied property tax is advocated by Representative-elect Spencer M. Grayson, of Chatham (Savannah) county.

No referendum was held when the state's prohibition law was enacted, he said, adding, therefore, the beer and whisky question "should be determined by the general assembly."

W. O. Cooper, Macon attorney and state senator-elect, says that powerful insurance companies and "real estate men who are their agents" are the principal sponsors of a sales tax to succeed the ad valorem system in Georgia.

In an address at Macon last night Cooper said that insurance companies own "almost 75 per cent of the business property in this state."

"All this sales tax talk," he said, "is coming from these companies and the real estate men who are their agents. Now that we've got no real estate, there will be no sales tax on us." Cooper also attacked big business, saying that "monopoly has driven small merchants out of business."

He predicted that a sales tax proposal will be one of the major issues before the 1935 general assembly.

RICHARD D. MEADER PASSES AT BRUNSWICK

Attorney and Historian Is Found Dead in Bed at Hotel.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP) Colonel Richard D. Meader, 67, Brunswick city attorney, historian and widely known Georgian, died suddenly in his room at a local hotel this morning.

Colonel Meader was taken ill last night and a physician was called. He improved, however, and dropped off to sleep shortly after midnight. When Manager Jack Gardner called at his room this morning he was found dead in his bed.

Colonel Meader spent practically his entire life in Brunswick. He attended local public schools and the University of Georgia, from which he was graduated in 1881. He was one of the first members of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at the university.

An authority on local history, he was the author of several sketches on Frederica, the Battle of Bloody Marsh and other points of Glynn county and coastal Georgia.

Colonel Meader for years had been a member of the Society of Colonial Wars and at one time served as deputy governor of the Georgia organization.

He had served twice as city attorney of Brunswick and was solicitor general of the Georgia supreme court. He was a member of the Georgia bar and a member of the Georgia Historical Society.

He never married and his only survivors are a brother, living in Massachusetts; a nephew, Willis W. Wilder, formerly of Savannah, and a niece, Mrs. George Greeley, of Marlboro, Massachusetts.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and interment will be in the family burial ground at Albany Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

IDENTIFICATION PLAN URGED BY SOLICITOR

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Creation of a state criminal identification bureau at an estimated cost of not more than $10,000 a year at the outset is advocated by Clayton C. Smith, solicitor-general of the State Mountain judicial circuit superior courts.

In a letter to Senator William M. Lester endorsing the latter's call for a state-wide conference in Atlanta December 29 to discuss reforms of criminal procedure in Georgia, Smith said he believed the identification bureau was the most important and least expensive measure "to be pushed" in the next legislature.

In alluding to the conference of solicitors and state officials Lester suggested two subjects for study with a view to mapping legislation—a highway patrol and criminal procedure.

Relief Agencies in Georgia
Cities Turning Itinerants Down.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Transients who seek aid in Columbus will be required either to work or to "move on," city officials have decided.

The transient bureau here plans to give lodging, so far as capacity permits, to men who actually are looking for work, but no help will be given those who are simply taking advantage of the government's efforts to return them to their homes or place them in jobs.

Chief of Police H. W. Cornett has instructed his officers to arrest on charges of vagrancy all those who will neither work nor leave town immediately.

Decision to take this action was announced after a conference yesterday between Chief Cornett, City Manager Marshall Morton and W. L. McMorris Jr., acting director of the transient bureau. The men met to discuss the problems from the increased influx of transients here.

More French Millions
Go Into War Chest

PARIS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Pierre Laval solemnly assured Adolf Hitler today that France is not trying to isolate Germany as the chamber of deputies today discussed another $500,000,000 franc loan to the French government.

The emergency army appropriation, rounding out the 1935 military budget of 12,000,000,000 francs (about $750,000,000), will be spent to strengthen France's fighting machine against the premier called "the danger from abroad."

Declaring Franco-Italian collaboration and the proposed Eastern Locarno security pact the cornerstones of European peace, Laval said:

"The French government will never do anything suggesting that Germany is right in believing that we seek to carry out a policy of isolation regarding her. It is advocated by the French government within the international framework was an effective guarantee of peace."

Hospital Clue Spurs
Hunt for Robinson

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A new clue, indicating the suspected kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Stoll, Louisville society woman, was seeking her, a medical police picture today in their hunt for Thomas H. Robinson Jr.

Sister Anna, superintendent of Des Moines hospital, informed police that a man resembling Robinson came to that institution yesterday with a request to see a physician.

After talking a few minutes, he left, she said, and was not seen again. Several physicians also disclosed they had been circled by the department of justice with descriptions of the fugitive.

Sister Anna said he did not appear in need of a doctor unless he was a mental case and he struck her as being a little "goofy," she said. It was when she later saw a picture of Robinson in a department of justice circular that one of the hospital physicians was reading that she noted the "stark resemblance" and summoned police.

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Two miners were killed and an undetermined number overcome by gas in a powder explosion today, 3,000 feet deep in Empire mine here. Rescue crews battled to remove miners from the fume-wreathed shaft.

Frank Harvey, 35, was killed in the powder explosion on the 3,000-foot level and Clarence Dickerman, 22, was asphyxiated by powder fumes.

Two of the men brought to the surface overpowered by gas were Albert Rore and William Gilbert. Rescue crews worked to revive them, while other gas-masked teams fought down the 3,800-foot level removing unconscious miners. Cause of the explosion was undetermined.

YUGOSLAV CABINET AND PREMIER QUIT

Prince Paul Trying To Form New Ministry After Political 'Showdown.'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Dec. 18. (AP)—A showdown between the two "strong men" of Yugoslav politics, Foreign Minister Bogoljub Vitchich and Premier Nikola Uzonovich, resulted today in the resignation of the Uzonovich cabinet.

Prince Paul, head of the regency governing the nation, accepted the ministers' resignations and tonight was busy trying to reform the cabinet along lines of his cherished project for more thoroughly representative government.

Vitchich, whose surprise resignation earlier today caused the crisis, was generally expected to head the new government. But it was understood Prince Paul's conversations with leaders of the various political factions would last several days.

The foreign minister, long regarded as the aged Uzonovich's likely successor in the premiership, came back to Belgrade from Geneva, where he pressed vigorously Yugoslav charges of Hungarian "complicity" in the murder of King Alexander at Marseille October 9, last week to be hailed at the railroad station as "the victor of Geneva."

His rivals in the cabinet, however, failed to greet enthusiastically his accomplishments at Geneva, and Vitchich resigned. Quickly thereafter Dragoutin Kojich, minister of agriculture, quit his post, and the resignation of the entire cabinet followed.

Long after Prince Paul had accepted the resignations and the government had quit persisted, but president of the skupstina (lower chamber) and the senate hastened to Dedine palace and the secret was out, it being customary to call the skupstina and senate heads to the palace immediately after the cabinet resigns.

The aged Uzonovich, who has held the office of premier in successive governments for years, formed the last cabinet October 23, two weeks after Alexander was assassinated at Marseille.

Nearly 2,800 Persons Get Reno Divorces in '34

RENO, Nev., Dec. 18. (AP)—The year 1934 has been another unusually profitable one for Reno's corps of divorce attorneys. Nearly 2,800 men and women from every state in the Union, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Panama, the Philippines, and 24 foreign countries have filed divorce suits during the year.

Only 1931, with 4,745 suits filed, and 1932, with 3,162, show a larger volume of business in the long history of Reno's existence as the nation's leading divorce center. In 1933, only 2,438 suits were filed.

Of the 2,799 suits in the first 11 1/2 months of 1934, more than half were filed by marital malcontents who flocked to Reno from two states on opposite sides of the country, New York and California.

Hauptmann Charges U. S. Witness Evasion

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—A charge that two federal agents—"leg men" in the investigation of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping—were transferred to western posts to make them unavailable as witnesses for Bruno Richard Hauptmann was made tonight by the prisoner's counsel, Edward J. Reilly.

Thomas E. Slak was assigned to duty at San Antonio, Texas, and Enos Sandberg at Salt Lake City, Utah, and both were assisted by Reilly as evidence "Hauptmann is not to get a fair trial from New Jersey authorities."

The lawyer declared he would have the investigators returned to New Jersey jurisdiction if he had to appeal personally to President Roosevelt. "These men who have been transferred," he stated, "are the key men in the investigation. They knew that Hauptmann was brutally beaten."

Wilkie Foresees End Of U. S. Power Buying

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 18. (AP)—Wendell L. Wilkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, here today to approve the 1935 budget of the Tennessee Electric Power Company, said he "had an impression" the federal government would not attempt any further acquisition of municipal power distribution systems through public referendums.

Mr. Wilkie, in discussing the attempted purchase of the Knoxville system by the Tennessee Valley Authority, answered with an emphatic "no" when asked if the Tennessee Electric Power Company would approve the sale of its distribution system to the city of Chattanooga if municipal ownership was voted in a proposed referendum.

He approved an operating budget of $130,000,000 and declared "public utilities would spend much more on developments" if the exact stand of the government on power could be determined.

RECORD MIGRATION OF EELS ASSURES ESKIMOS OF FOOD

SEATTLE, Dec. 18. (AP)—There are eels in the igloo of Alaska Eskimos this winter and prosperity in every village along the Yukon, for the migrating lampreys rushed up the river by the millions, sending the water over its banks.

This year it was an extraordinary spectacle. Millions—even tens of millions—swarmed up the mighty Yukon under the first shell of winter ice, making the weaker stretches of the frozen mantle crumble, displacing water of the great stream until it rose and surged along the shoreline, overflowing and making the ice sheets heave to the cracking point.

It was the greatest of the annual eel migrations in the memory of the oldest inhabitants from Russian mission to Seattle.

Dashing across the ice with dog sleds and nets, the Eskimos caught literally millions of eels and froze them, to use as food for men and dogs during the long arctic winter.

This season there will be an eel in every pot when the Eskimos sit down to dinner, and outside the igloo under a cold black sky faintly lit by the pulsing aurora borealis, the ravenous malamute dogs will munch that rare delicacy, roasted eel, which tastes like "pork cracklin'." The dogs don't like raw eel.

When migrating time comes the natives cut holes in the Yukon ice and set up watch camps. The eels, wriggling like snakes, rush in a mass from the Bering sea—a mass so dense they "push the water up ahead of them." This causes water and eels to spurt up through the holes as the lampreys swim under the ice. Eskimos dip them up with nets and send fast dog teams to the next village to warn of the approaching eels, which swim at the rate of 10 miles a day. The eels swim 400 miles up the Yukon to Anvik and then "disappear."

DRIVERS' LICENSE URGED IN GEORGIA

FERA Official Tells Talmadge State Second Most 'Unsafe' in Nation

Describing Georgia as second to the most "unsafe" state in the Union, W. C. Wheary, national safety director of the FERA, Tuesday appealed to Governor Eugene Talmadge to effect the passage of a uniform state drivers' license law as a means of reducing traffic accidents' toll.

In the afternoon Mr. Wheary addressed a safety rally of Fulton county relief officials with Miss Ada Barker, administrator, presiding.

Enactment by the Georgia legislature of laws similar to those in force in 26 other states and the District of Columbia would, Mr. Wheary said, reduce the high death rate from automobile accidents, as well as traffic violations. "I came to Atlanta to ask Governor Talmadge's approval," he said.

According to Keller F. Melton, state FERA safety director, a recent survey reveals 10 of the group of 12 "worst" states are southern, with Georgia "next to the worst" of all from a standpoint both of traffic deaths and traffic violations. Seventy thousand dollars is being spent at present by Mr. Melton's department in conducting traffic surveys in Atlanta, Augusta, Macon and Savannah, representing 50 to 60 per cent of the driving public. Although the survey indicates a specific need for a drivers' license law, provisions of the city charters require legislative action to effect such a statute.

Mr. Wheary believes that licensing drivers is the only satisfactory method of curbing unsafe conditions, as violators, he said, "have utter disregard for the laws and break down every conceivable regulation."

At the afternoon safety rally for Fulton county relief workers, Mr. Wheary related the encouraging decrease of accidents and fatalities in FERA work, attributing this directly to constant vigilance by all those supervising work projects. He commended the excellent showing made in Georgia and well as Fulton county.

"Only 2 per cent of accidents are unavoidable, and they are acts of Providence," he said.

Preceding Mr. Wheary's address, brief talks were delivered by Miss Barker, Colonel R. L. Pratt, regional engineer and director of safety; Miss Gary Simms, DeKalb administrator; R. L. McDougall, state engineer; DeFord Smith, Atlanta FERA traffic survey director, and Mr. Melton.

3 Bondsmen Agree To Pay City $2,000

Denial of any obligation for bonds where prisoners have been produced and tried but admitting responsibility in cases where prisoners are still at large, three bondsmen Tuesday filed an answer to bills totaling $10,000, presented by Atlanta's police committee.

Responsibility for about $2,000 thus is admitted by the bondsmen. But even then the answers contend that only the court can forfeit the bonds and that collections must be made by the clerk of the court, the only legally constituted authority.

Bondsmen stand ready and willing to pay the aggregate of approximately $2,000 as soon as the proper legal procedure is followed and demand is made on them, they asserted in the answers filed with Councilman Aubrey Milam and Howard Haire, a subcommittee of the police committee, in charge of the bond matter.

Milam asserted Tuesday that he wished to confer with City Attorney James L. Mayson before taking any further action.

In denying responsibility for any bonds where the prisoner has later been produced, the bondsmen claimed the city was estopped from attempting to collect the bonds because it failed to legally forfeit them before the prisoner was brought into court.

Nine Go on Trial In White Slave Case

SMITHFIELD, N. C., Dec. 18. (AP)—Charged with kidnaping three young Johnston county girls and taking them to New York for immoral purposes, nine defendants, including seven from Johnston county and a man and a woman from New York, went on trial in superior court here today.

The young girl testified of a visit to her home early last May by Sarah Beasley Krane. She told of being induced by Mrs. Krane to go on to her automobile, of being taken by train from there to New York. She testified Mrs. Krane had threatened to kill her if she spoke to anyone.

The witness said she was taken to a hotel apartment and forced to engage in prostitution. Her clothes, she testified, were locked up by Mrs. Krane, while she was forced to wear only a pink gown.

Luther Dean Elliott, 43, native Atlantan and World War veteran, died Tuesday in a veterans' hospital at Tuscaloosa, Ala., following an extended illness.

In addition to his wife and two daughters, Misses June and Laura Elliott, he is survived by five sisters, Mrs. H. D. Lester, Mrs. L. E. Smith, Mrs. H. T. Curtin and Mrs. A. Gallagher, all of Atlanta, and Mrs. E. E. Wilson, of Austell, and a brother, F. M. Elliott.

Funeral services and burial will take place at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Wagoner, Ala.

Royal Modesty Revealed In Diary of Empress

LONDON, Dec. 18. (AP)—The diary of the Empress Marie Louise, covering the years 1810 to 1813, was reported to have been sold at auction today for 490 pounds sterling (approximately $2,450).

The name of the purchaser was not disclosed.

One section of the diary records an amusing sidelight on Marie Louise's modesty. The empress set forth that while visiting the war vessel Charlemagne at Cherbourg, she was compelled to ascend a ladder, the steps of which were widely separated.

As a result, she wrote, so much of her royal leg was disclosed, she vowed she never would board a battleship again unless garbed in trousers.

Saar Police Head Quits Under Nazi Pressure

GENEVA, Dec. 18. (AP)—Captain Arthur G. Hemsley, giant 42-year-old Englishman, resigned tonight as chief of police in the Saar basin.

Nazi charges that he as implicated indirectly in the street fight Sunday involving Captain James Justice, another English member of the international police force, caused his resignation.

To replace him Colonel Geoffrey G. Knox, British president of the League of Nations commission governing the Saar, named Major Hennessey, who has been attached to Knox's office for several months.

Mine Blast Kills One.

HENDERSON, Ky., Dec. 18. (AP)—An explosion in a coal mine of the Green River Coal Company, at Spottsville, 10 miles east of here, today killed at least one miner, William Tate, of Henderson, and seriously injured another, William Edward Smith, who was badly burned.

Fast Freight Line.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP)—The United States shipping board today authorized the establishment of a fast freight service from Baltimore and Norfolk to London by the Baltimore Mail line.

Mosley, Aids, Freed On Rioting Charge

LEWES, England, Dec. 18. (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, ardent leader of British fascism, and three followers were acquitted today of charges of riotous assembly without calling a single witness to their defense.

The judge agreed with the contention of Sir Patrick Hastings, chief defense attorney, that "no case" had been made and directed the jury to find all four not guilty.

Yawning Victim Believed On Road to Recovery

STERLING, Ill., Dec. 18. (AP)—With rest as the only treatment, Mrs. Harold McKee today seemed to have ended her nine days of almost constant yawning.

A new attack seized the Round Grove, Ill., housewife this morning but it was a short one. No other attacks occurred during the afternoon.

"She may have short attacks for some little time, but it now appears that the trouble is quieting," Dr. Pettit said.

It was the first sleep Mrs. McKee has had, without the use of sedatives, since she was seized Sunday, December 2, for more than 200 hours she has yawned, her face muscles strained and sore, before the seizure let up.

Billion HOLC Fund Is Sought by Wagner

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP)—An effort to put more money in the hands of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation advanced today to the stage of the drafting of a bill for another $1,000,000,000.

Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, announced he would introduce at the forthcoming session a bill authorizing the corporation to issue another $1,000,000,000 in bonds to be exchanged for mortgages on homes.

KIDNAPING PLOT BY FISCH BARED

CRIME PLANNED IN 1933 BUT NEVER EXECUTED, CARPENTER TELLS POLICE.

PORTLAND, Maine, Dec. 18. (UP)—The late Isidor Fisch, friend of Bruno Hauptmann, was named today as the man who plotted but never carried out the kidnaping of a girl, member of a wealthy family, from Camp Wildwood, Brighton, Maine, in the summer of 1933.

Ellis Sanborn, 40, Bridgton carpenter, whose estranged wife was an acquaintance of Fisch, picked the latter's picture from a group photograph of six men and five women and identified him as the intended kidnaper.

Sanborn told county authorities that his wife, the former Erna Cahu, of Germany, brought the man resembling Fisch to his home the last week of June, 1933. The stranger went by a name other than Fisch. He was accompanied by a chauffeur.

The visitor promised Sanborn, according to the latter's story, "a lot of easy money" if he would hold the intended kidnap victim prisoner in his home during ransom negotiations. The man expected to collect at least $100,000 from the girl's father.

Sanborn said he flatly rejected the proposal, and the girl was never kidnaped. Fisch, an impoverished fur cutter, returned to Germany and died there last March.

Asked if the chauffeur who accompanied the man believed to have been Fisch might have been Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnaping suspect, Sanborn replied:

"I'm just as positive that the chauffeur wasn't Hauptmann as I am that the visitor was Fisch."

BONUS MARCH PLANS LAID TO COMMUNISTS

Atlanta Commander Denies Any Reputable Veteran Organization Taking Part.

Declaring that the proposed bonus march on Washington is being fostered in various sections of the country by communistic groups, Cecil V. Whiddon, commander of Greater Atlanta Post No. 390, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tuesday denied that "any reputable veteran organization is identified with the move for proposed mobilization of World War veterans at the national capital."

"Those who are sponsoring the proposed bonus marches are merely interested in fomenting revolution and discontent. They are trying to advance their cause by a demonstration of power in Washington," Commander Whiddon said. "These individuals are only using the veteran as a tool in a nefarious scheme designed to aggravate the violation of law and order."

He charged that bonus legislation pending in Washington two years ago was defeated by the bonus march at that time and the work of the national legislative committee of his organization was destroyed when the veterans took possession of the national capital. The campaign for immediate cash payment of adjusted compensation certificates will be conducted in the future along dignified and orderly lines, he promised.

RANKIN ACCUSATIONS REITERATED BY LEGION

In reply to the published statement in which Miss Jeanette Rankin was quoted as saying she was considering suing the officials of the Georgia American Legion for libel in connection with the controversy between Miss Rankin and the Legion over her lectures in Georgia on peace, Kenneth R. Murrell, commander of Atlanta Post No. 1, of the American Legion, Tuesday issued the following statement:

"The statements concerning Miss Jeanette Rankin made by representatives of Atlanta Post No. 1, the American Legion, and Quimby Melton, national vice commander of the American Legion, in the course of a conference with the president of the Senate, were based on sworn testimony taken by a committee of the congress of the United States. We think that source of information reliable."

"Miss Rankin says in a published interview that she is secretary of the legislative committee of the National Council for the Prevention of War. This organization is headed by Seymour Weidman. He publishes 'The Daily Worker,' a communist paper. The National Council for the Prevention of War draws its support, in part, from the notorious Garland Fund. This fund supports in part Emma Goldman's anarchist-communist school; 'The Daily Worker,' official communist newspaper; 'The Masses,' a communist magazine, and 'The Workers' School,' a newspaper which says that its purpose is to train leaders for the communist revolution in the United States."

"We don't think Miss Rankin holds the position of 'old dog' in this group of bad company."

"In the recent raids in Atlanta communist literature with her name printed on it has been picked up. We have that in our files. Let her sue."

Stenographer Lived as 'Gun Moll' To Help Capture Dillinger Gangster

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 18.—(UP)—A blond stenographer lived two months as a "gun moll" among the underworld's most vicious gangsters to trap Joseph (Jerry) Burns, Dillinger mobster and suspect in the $427,000 Brooklyn armored car robbery of last August, her boss revealed today.

The boss, Deputy Attorney-General J. Edward Bares, of Indiana, was with her, posing as organizer for a gang of booze-runners.

"I wore silk shirts," he said, "and that convinced them I was okay." He led Captain John Stege, of Chicago's "Dillinger detail" and postal inspectors to a south side flat Sunday and captured Burns, one of 10 convicts who escaped from Michigan City, Ind., penitentiary in September, 1933, and formed the nucleus of the Dillinger gang.

There was a stubble of beard on his face and he toyed with a blue steel revolver as he told of his life as a "hard-boiled hoodlum." He twisted the revolver from Burns' hand when the killer surrendered.

His companion in the role was Miss Genevieve (Jack) Roth, blue-eyed stenographer who accompanied him on a previous investigation which disclosed that John Dillinger used bribery more effectively than a "wooden gun" in his escape from Crown Point, Ind., jail.

"I was having a good time," she said. "Goodness, no, I wasn't frightened. I went with Burns to cabarets and dances. He was very neat and polite. He was a fancy dresser but he didn't care much for night clubs."

She was a little bit "spree" at "all this fuss" and referred further questions to Bares.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE FAILS TO GAIN LABOR TRUCE

F. D. R. Asks Six Months' Truce Between Workers and Employers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—President Roosevelt intervened today in an attempt to quiet labor unrest in the steel industry but was unable to obtain immediate agreement to a six-month truce between workers and employers.

He conferred for more than an hour with members of the steel labor relations board, Myron Taylor, of United States Steel; Eugene Grace, of Bethlehem Steel; President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor; and Michael Tighe, another union official.

The issue involved is whether representatives of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel Workers, an A. F. of L. union, shall bargain for all employees. Afterward, the White House announced the conference discussed a formula for an agreement covering a trial period of six months. No final decision was reached, it was said,

Flunking Means Death To Navy Air Students

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Flunking a final examination meant more than loss of a diploma for the 22 enlisted men graduated by the Navy from the parachute school at Lakehurst, N. J.

The final test was: Each man was required to jump from the airplane E-1 using a parachute which he had packed himself.

but further conferences will be held among members of the steel board and representatives of employers and employees.

The chief executive's action centered attention upon the deadlock in the industry which many feel represents a real threat to his hopes of industrial peace.

CORRODED GAS TANKS CRIPPLE PLANE CARRIER

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Her eight gigantic gasoline storage tanks corroded beyond repair by high-test aviation gasoline, the new $200,000 aircraft carrier Ranger will be out of commission for the next five months at the Norfolk navy yard while new tanks are being installed, it was learned today.

In order to install the new tanks, a great section of the Ranger's hull must be removed.

FEDERAL CASH BALANCE HITS $1,692,347,359

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The government's working cash balance jumped on December 18 from $729,944,560 to $1,692,347,359 as money poured in from a $3,000,000,000 financial turnover.

Sales for cash of $491,339,100 in 1-8 per cent bonds and $476,473,900 in 1-8 per cent notes were major contributors to the large increase in funds which must carry recovery costs to March.

But there also was a $992,498,500 maturity, approximately $145,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt and the first inflow of fourth-quarter income tax payments which, during the month, probably will exceed $100,000,000.

Counting in $807,193,895 of profit gold-dollar derivation and $96,870,670 charged by the government for silver coinage, the total treasury balance came to $2,566,411,825.

The new borrowing pushed the public debt to a new high of $28,387,921,465, leaving it only $3,500,000 short of the $31,887,921,465 President Roosevelt estimated would be reached by next June 30.

During five and one-half months of the current fiscal year the government had spent $3,245,590,984 as compared with $2,217,559,620 in the same period a year ago. The deficit for the year was $1,028,039,237 as against $908,254,144 last year.

21 Mississippi Towns Band To Get TVA Power

CLEVELAND, Miss., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Twenty-one north Mississippi towns today formed a permanent organization to make a united effort to bring TVA power within their reach.

The Northwest Mississippi Electric Power Association was formed with Mayor Milton C. Smith, of Greenville, Miss., as president; Mayor L. C. Proby, Grenada, vice president, and the following directors: Mayor R. P. McCarr, Sardis; M. Gerald Burrow, Tunica; Mayor R. B. Johnson, Cleveland, and Dr. J. A. Maxwell, Drew.

More than 100 officials representing 21 towns attended the meeting. The operations with TVA power at Tupelo, Miss., and Alcorn county, Mississippi, were described to the meeting.

HOLLYWOOD IN NEW YORK

By MOLLIE MERRICK

Leslie Howard, between rehearsals of "The Petrified Forest," flies out to Hollywood to "discuss future picture plans." He has seven more to make for Warners, I believe. But Merle Oberon is in Hollywood and this is a possible reason for the airplane, the hurry, the enthusiasm and the plans. Howard may do a picture with the British beauty one of these days. . . . Noel Coward, keeping the movie world on tenterhooks by not admitting whether or no he intends to step into celluloid with the new Hecht-MacArthur picture.

Sam Wood, Hollywood director, stranding at 21 West Fifty-second street, which he said he saw of the Hollywood wit who was one of the few who had been asked what he wished for most. His reply (not without a sidelong glance at his somewhat forbidding wife): "I wish I were free, white and 21 West Fifty-second street."

"That dreadful day at this same establishment when Noel Coward had been seen in the same room, while everyone looked too horrified to move."

"That same day Jerome Zerbe arrived without his candid camera box, and all the pretty ladies held their chins taut for absolutely nothing."

Dwight Fiske still holding his sophisticated audiences in stitches with his sophisticated naughtiness. We recalled his Hollywood trek and its disastrous results. Hired by Hollywood's vendome to entertain its patrons of evening hours, he found the cold countenances of the professional troop all too much for him. He ran over his repertoire from the most serious to the most shocking numbers, but got no reaction whatever. Then, a well-known lady of the cinema laughed toward him. "Say," she hiccupped, "we've been pretty patient. How about a little number we might like for a change, say a good routine vershucked the Hollywood contract and came back to N'Yawk, where fools are fools and no mistaking it.

Atlanta's cool spell may last for several days, as leaden skies and rain continue to withhold the sun, said George W. Minding, government weather forecaster. A sharp northeast wind and 23 inch of rainfall sent the mercury down to 40 early Tuesday, where it lingered throughout most of the day. Today's temperature extremes are forecast as 38 to 38, indicating a slight increase for this and south portions of Georgia.

Tuesday marked a general rainfall through most of the United States, extending from the Pacific coast eastward and as far north as Norfolk, Va. A temperature of 14 below was reported for Manitoba, Canada, while most of the area south of the Great Lakes recorded temperature decreases.

Cabinet Served Wine At Roosevelt Dinner

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The cabinet sat down to dinner with the president and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight at the big horseshoe table in the White House's state dining room and found ine glasses compared to the reg-ment that were in use in pre-prohibition days. Into them was poured two unds of wine—not imported—but

The gold service plate and the white House silver gleamed under the huge crystal chandelier. After the dinner 200 guests, were received by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt for a musicale at which Mme. Elisabeth Schumann, soprano, and Ernest Hutcheson, pianist, were heard. The dinner was the official opening of the capital's social season.

PARAGUAY REJECTS LEAGUE PROPOSAL

Gran Chaco Hostilities To Continue as 18th Offer Fails.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Paraguay cabled a rejection of the League of Nations latest peace plan to Geneva today and probabilities of a fight to the finish with Bolivia in the grim Chaco jungles seemed stronger than ever.

Since Bolivia's acceptance of the plan had been based provisionally upon Paraguay's acceptance, prospects for early cessation of hostilities faded into the background along with 17 previous peace proposals submitted by the League and neutral nations since June, 1932.

The opposing armies were facing

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A postcard signed "Slim" brought $20.25 at a stamp auction held by the Mound City Stamp Club.

each other westward of the 82d meridian, the recently victorious Paraguayans menacing Bolivian positions even beyond the limits of the Chaco, in their own provinces of Tarija and Santa Cruz, which hold some of the world's richest oil fields.

Bolivia was reported to be mobilizing reserves inclusive to the age of 49 in hopes of forming a new army of 100,000 men to stem the Paraguayan advance.

The Paraguayan rejection, based largely on a report of General Jose Batigarrilla, commander of the war forces in the Chaco, objected to the "uncertain state in which the parties would remain after suspension of hostilities" under a proposed truce.

during the textile strike in Georgia last fall.

Flying squadrons of striking textile workers moved by motor car and truck from one mill center to another, closing down a number of mills.

The governor's flying squadron struck at Newnan, made wholesale arrests, and brought the prisoners to Atlanta. It made other visits during the strike. The chief executive expressed himself as pleased at its decisive work.

Incidentally, the chief executive is understood to be in favor of putting the proposed state police force under General Camp's command.

Radio Equipment Urged.

The chief executive did not go into details of the operation of such a force, except to say that he thought the patrol should be equipped with receiving sets to keep in constant communication with a central office.

The governor left the impression that he thought the details of the plan were a matter which should be worked out by the legislature.

Various means have been suggested by members of the legislature for supporting such a patrol. Some have said it could be provided for out of motor vehicle license revenue. Others suggested that it be financed by a uniform drivers' license law, and still others say it could be made self-supporting by providing that the force

State Officials Inspect New Streamlined Bus

An ultra-modern streamlined bus, one of ten manufactured by the White Motor Company for use in the Atlanta territory by Southeastern Greyhound, was paraded in Atlanta Tuesday. Equipped with hot water heaters, leather-covered reclining chairs with adjustable pillows, new ventilation system, ice water and other conveniences, the new 33-foot bus is said to be the last word in highway transportation equipment.

could call on the highway patrol for assistance in time of emergency.

Senator Redwine voiced similar approval.

"The measure passed the senate last time and although I was not a member then I think the spirit of the new senate will be entirely in favor of the measure," the prospective senate president said. "It will supply one of Georgia's greatest needs."

Senator William Lester, of Augusta, author of the measure which was passed by the senate in 1933, declared that he planned to introduce the bill again the first day of the 1935 session.

"My bill which called for a small expenditure and use of only 75 men passed the senate with only two dissenting votes," the Augusta leader declared. "I do not expect a single opposing vote this time."

Sees Cut in Accidents.

Senator Rawlins said that he believed a state highway patrol would cut down a large number of highway accidents as well as help regular police with their work.

"Nothing of greater importance will come before the assembly," the McRae senator said.

"I am for the measure 100 per cent," Speaker Pro Tem. Arnall said. "My colleague, Representative Stonewall Dyer, and I have talked the matter over several times and we will adopt the plan favored by the governor all we can."

Senator J. Sante Crawford, of Rome, a veteran member of the assembly, declared that he favored immediate adoption of the plan.

"With cars equipped with radios on the highways we can catch a lot more criminals than we are catching," Senator Crawford said. "I think adoption of this plan will be one of the outstanding events of the legislature."

Representative J. Render Terrell Jr., of LaGrange, said that he could name half a dozen major crimes for which no one has been arrested that he thought could have been cleaned

ARMY MAN LINKED WITH ARMS FIRM

Plan To Aid Sales by Hiring U. S. Officer To Write Propaganda Bared

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A Remington Arms Company plan to increase its foreign sales by hiring a ranking American army officer to prepare a magazine article for publication abroad was revealed today in the senate's investigation of munitions makers.

Lieutenant Colonel Townsend Whelen, still in the service and expecting to do some work for the company upon his retirement a few months from now, was the author. He was requested to write the article in a letter which described it frankly as "propaganda," and the company's attitude as "entirely selfish."

At the other end of Pennsylvania avenue, meanwhile, what was described as an optimistic report on possibilities for an international agreement providing stringent control of the munitions traffic was given President Roosevelt by Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland.

Wilson was this country's spokesman in presenting the American arms control proposals before the steering committee of the Geneva disarmament conference.

"There are real grounds," Wilson said afterwards, "for hope in the accomplishment of a treaty dealing with the manufacture of and trade in arms."

Before the senate committee other documents and oral testimony during the day disclosed:

That the Remington Arms Company was solicited for advertising in the Army and Navy Journal by a second army officer, Lieutenant B. R. Chadwick, on stationery of the war department.

That Whelen was compensated for the article, which company officials said they thought never was published, and other writings at a "small hourly rate."

That upon his retirement Whelen expects to open an office in Washington as a consulting ordinance engineer, in which capacity he feels he can "go anywhere and do anything," the company desires and still retain his retirement pay of $375 a month.

al Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and other leaders.

The NRA committee was still fighting late today over whether the idea of purely voluntary codes should allow industries to withdraw from labor provisions as well as the fair practice provisions, and also over whether codes should still provide for control of production.

The more basic argument in the drafting committee concerned the extent to which the final group of recommendations should extend the olive branch to the administration.

More specifically, this argument—the seriousness of which remained to be seen—revolved around whether the conference should present a militant front, for co-operation with the administration if possible or one battle if necessary. This view was compared to the advocacy of a more general statement of the business viewpoint which could be more easily used as a basis for co-operation with the administration.

Testimony Shows Little Gloria Told Court She Hated Mother

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Little Gloria Vanderbilt told a court today that she hated her mother, Gloria Vanderbilt, from regaining custody of her child. The court overruled the mother's claim that she had submitted copies of letters from Gloria with circles and crosses marked which the child told a transcript of the child's interview with Justice Carew in her appellate court fight to block the mother, Gloria Vanderbilt, from regaining custody of her child. The mother had submitted copies of letters from Gloria with circles and crosses marked which the child told a transcript of the child's interview with Justice Carew in her appellate court fight to block the mother, Gloria Vanderbilt, from regaining custody of her child.

mother?" asked Mrs. Vanderbilt's counsel. "Yes," the girl-heir answered. "And you really didn't mean it when you sent kisses and hugs?" the lawyer continued. "No," Carew had kept the transcript undisclosed. He had also closed his courtroom after the aunt's witness testified.

It was disclosed during a day of wrangling out of which came but one decision—the mother may have Gloria for Christmas if Mrs. Whitney consents. Pending appeal, Mrs. Vanderbilt has not taken advantage of Justice Carew's ruling that she may have the child for Christmas Day and over the week-ends. Her request that the judge's order be stayed was denied.

The appellate court required a stipulation from Mrs. Whitney—if she allows the child to spend Christmas with her mother—that the mother's action would not prejudice her appeal. It was not known whether Mrs. Whitney would agree.

In simple language the child, heiress to a fortune of more than $2,000,000, told her story to the stern jurist and attorneys during the supreme court fight for her custody.

"Do you want to stay in the country?" asked Justice Carew of the child who was then staying at the Whitney Long Island estate.

"Yes, I never want to live in the city."

"How would you like to live with your mother in the country?"

"Never," she answered. "I always want to live with my aunt."

"You have lived a long time with your mother?"

"Yes. But I hardly ever see her—anything of her. She has never been nice to me."

She was told her mother might buy her a pony. She was told she might learn to love her mother and want to go back. She answered:

"No, I won't."

Justice Carew, a former member of congress, told little Gloria how glad his child always was when he came home.

"Yes, but probably you were nice to her," Gloria replied.

In another affidavit filed with the court by counsel for Mrs. Whitney it was charged that Mrs. Vanderbilt's father, the late Harry Hays Morgan, a diplomat, had denounced the manner in which his daughter lived and feared it would have a corrupting influence on the child.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's affidavit filed with her appeal said:

"The best evidence of the child's affection are her own letters to me. They breathe a spontaneous love and affection."

After defending her mode of living for the past few years and her friends in Europe, where she resided a large part of the time, the mother concluded:

"I am not afraid of anything in this record. I court and invite the fullest scrutiny. I want this court to see the flimsy, stupid and lying testimony which has sought to brand me and every human being with whom I came in contact for 10 years as unfit and disreputable."

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

About As Smart Looking and Useful A Gift as You Could Give Women

By MIGNON.

1. If you want to give something for Christmas that won't cost you too much, and that you want to look like a great deal of money and to be useful and delicate and gorgeously packaged, I can give you your answer. It's a combination of a bottle of cologne in a very beautiful bottle, in either the unopened or the very beautifully and delicately scented cologne, and with it a box of bath powder which is put up in a box the bottom of which is cork (also cork colored) and the top a rich cream color. It's a big box, which is what everybody wants for a bath powder. You have a chance then to fling the bath puff around in it without getting the powder all over the room.

If you give something made by a reliable manufacturer, something really elegant and also useful, there is little left to be desired as far as gifts are concerned. The package at holiday season must be good to look at. These two things are exquisitely packaged. The cork lower half of the bath powder box prevents it from becoming wet, as it is usually left on the corner of the bathtub, where it would be an eyesore if it were to become thoroughly soaked.

2. There is another gift, another gem package that looks Christmas, in a box that is of reddish tan, like alligator skin, with silver stripes down the sides, only four startlingly pretty silver stripes to the box. It is a grand powder, too, and can be done up in yellow tissue paper and tied with a brown and yellow satin ribbon. Put the two strands of ribbon (about half an inch wide) together and tie in a bow. Then after it is tied separate the loops and the brown and yellow will stand out in stunning fashion. This can be done with the first mentioned packages also and with perfect effect. If you don't want yellow, tan is as good. If you want to, you may use brown tissue paper and use two shades of yellow (yellow and orange) for the bow. This makes a gorgeous package. Don't put holly on these boxes. Brown and yellow kill the holly and the red berries do nothing but wipe out the ribbon effect. If you want to use anything more than the ribbon (which I would not) use a gold leaf and stick it through the ribbon close to the bow.

This second bath powder may be accompanied by as many articles in this line as you care to buy. They come in various things—the talcum, the cologne, the perfume and the face powder, all in the same stunning containers. If you give several wrap them separately, tie them the same, the smaller packets with narrower ribbon of the same color, put them in a gift box, wrap the box in tissue paper and tie it with holiday ribbon.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone Mignon at the Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Booming Police Voice To Warn Careless Motorist, Pedestrian

Pedestrians who jaywalk or motorists who don't abide by traffic regulations in the downtown shopping district today might find themselves subjects of an object lesson in safety which will be delivered in a booming and far-reaching voice.

The Atlanta police department this afternoon will inaugurate a safety program designed to educate Atlantans to safety.

Captain Jack Malcom, traffic director of the police department, riding in a loud-speaker automobile furnished by the Ford Motor Company and driven by Lieutenant Reggie McLean, head of the motorcycle squad, will cruise the downtown shopping district. When a traffic violation is seen Captain Malcom's voice, greatly amplified, will warn the violator and will give advice to the violator, whether the careless person is a motorist or a pedestrian.

The cruising safety car will be a familiar sight downtown for the next 30 days and will be particularly active, Lieutenant McLean said, during the holiday shopping season, when excitement makes pedestrians careless and when the streets are filled with traffic.

The automobile also will be decorated with signs urging safety and warning against careless practices.

Lieutenant McLean Tuesday night warned shoppers against becoming frightened when a booming voice started them with "Lady in the brown coat, you're endangering your life by crossing on the red light. Wait for the green light." The lady in the brown coat will feel very conspicuous. Lieutenant McLean said, but she won't get a ticket to appear in police court, which will be some compensation for her bluntness.

At ATLANTA'S THEATERS

'Chu Chin Chow' Plays At Fox, Opening Today

Embodiment of the thrills of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, "Chu Chin Chow," with its galaxy of beautiful girls, entrancing music, fantastic dances opens its engagement at the Fox theater today.

Replete with the mysterious and bizarre narrative of cruel bandits, love and romance, the great stage spectacle has been lavishly improved in its screen version.

For the first time theater-goers will have the opportunity to renew acquaintance with Arabian Night characters, whose intrigues, treacheries and daring deeds thrilled them in the long ago.

Audiences will laugh at George Robey's broad wit and hilarious antics, as Ali Baba; they will gasp breathlessly over the villainies of the grim robber chieftain, a role to which Fritz Kortner will bring all the ripe experience of a tragedian used to creating blood-chilling moments and holding spectators on the keen edge of suspense. Above all, they will pay homage to Anna May Wong, as the beautiful slave girl, Zahrat, who, with her lithe body swaying to and fro in languorous dance to the seductive music of the east, fascinates with her magic spell.

In future screen history, the coming of "Chu Chin Chow" may rank as a great event. Because this picture, as an example of magical entertainment, virtually stands alone in its class.

To add variety and to complete a program that may be termed a pre-holiday event, the Fox will offer "Madhouse Movies," the cameraman's adventures while "Filming the Great" and Fox "Bi-weekly News."

sent a message to Macon officers but declined to say on what charges he wanted the two men held.

"I talked with Chief Poole tonight," Officer Moore said, "and he told me he would send for Harvey tomorrow. The Macon officer took Harvey into custody in front of the Macon Telegraph building and begged them to tell him what charges had been brought against him."

Moore said Smith had been living with a brother here since his release from the penitentiary, but that he was not at the brother's home tonight.

The Macon officers asked Harvey what he was doing in Atlanta Saturday and Moore quoted the prisoner as saying he spent most of the day in the capital city with a sister who was "very sick." The officers also quoted him as saying he left Atlanta early in the night and returned to Macon.

Told to "Sis no more."

When Smith and Harvey were pardoned, Governor Talmadge told the two notorious Georgia escape artists to "go in peace and sin no more."

The governor said Harvey had been sentenced to 110 years, talked himself out of 100 years when the governor called on him while he was confined in one of the death cells at the prison farm.

Harvey made spectacular escapes. Once he escaped from prison and was captured in Nashville, Tenn. Smith, during his temporary periods of freedom, boasted that he would "never be taken back alive," but each time his recapture was made without much difficulty.

The governor said he had considered the pardons after talking with Harvey in Milledgeville at the time he took 100 years from his sentence.

In making public his order of full pardon, Governor Talmadge said he was motivated in pardoning them partly by comparing their records with those of several bankers who "had beaten widows and orphans out of their money and then drew light sentences or no sentences at all."

"These boys," he continued, "had no mothers, were only orphans, you might say, and the sum total of their thefts was only a few hundred dollars."

In 1927 Harvey escaped from the Vauclava county prison camp in Florida, where he was serving five years for housebreaking. He used another name.

Harvey and Smith at one time were charged with holding up a night club in Miami, Fla.

Officer Moore said Harvey had not asked for a lawyer, and that he would not be granted bail, "at least tonight."

The Macon officer said all he knew about the desire for Harvey was that Chief Poole had said over the telephone he wanted him "for identification purposes."

In Atlanta, two detectives, who said they had been told of Harvey being in jail here, said they would come to Governor Eugene Talmadge, when advised early Wednesday morning that a man listed as Leland Harvey was in Bibb county jail, said he would have no statement to make until it had been definitely determined it was the man he had pardoned last April.

LONG REPUDIATES AIM OF 'PET BILL'

House Passes Measure Putting Teachers Directly Under 'Kingfish'

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Louisiana kingfish dictator, Huey Long, caught trying to slip a law through the special session of the legislature giving him the hiring and firing privileges over the state's 15,000 school teachers, today said he didn't mean it at all.

The "colorful" clause in one of Long's 33 self-styled "harmless" bills, discovered only yesterday, today provoked a one-man revolt in the house of representatives which, nevertheless, shot the measure through to final passage at the rate of a bill every three minutes.

The revolt, Representative G. W. Lester, an old-line anti-administrationist, took the floor to characterize Long as a "political madman" and a "modern Nero" and the legislators as "putty faced stooges."

The whole trouble developed over a bill which Long "explained" to the house ways and means committee yesterday as permitting students from one parish to attend a school in another parish.

Buried in the measure was a provision that appointments of all school teachers by the parish boards must be approved by the state budget committee, composed of the governor, the superintendent of education and the state treasurer, all of whom were elected with Long's support.

After the trick feature was spotlighted today, Long had Representative N. B. Hoffmann, one of his floor leaders, announce that the clause would be amended out.

But the house, just the same, went ahead and passed the measure without alteration. Hoffmann explained the amendment would be made in the senate.

Lester, in verbally slashing at Long, said he felt "dishonored" because of the legislation offered calling upon the people to surrender the "last vestige of their local political rights."

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Headache, indigestion, dizziness, backache, pain in all parts of the body—indigestion—can you suffer from one or all? And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others, have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. One at the unimportant cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestine the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing acids and quickening digestion and dissolving the intestinal mass. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food, acids, poisons, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant, natural way to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Macmura's Oxidized Little White Tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesium, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes bile acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean. Take two Oxidized Little White Tablets—before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your hand on your abdomen and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Caro's Affair With Lupescu Scored, Defended by Deputies VIENNA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Rumania's red-headed apple of discord—King Carol's friend, Magda Lupescu—became the most burning topic of discussion in that country's parliament today.

Speeches, involving her, however, were strictly suppressed in Bucharest although some foreign legations have been receiving stenographic reports of them from Rumanian informants.

A speech which J. Maniu, leader of the peasant party, planned to deliver against Madame Lupescu in the chamber of deputies, was called off after a conference of the national peasant party leaders. When Maniu sent newspapers a digest of what he had to say, his publication was forbidden by the censor.

Maniu's summary showed he intended a tirade, mainly in recapitulation of events surrounding Carol's sudden return from Paris and seizure of the throne in 1930.

According to Maniu, Madame Lupescu, solemnly promised, prior to Carol's departure from Paris to leave Rumania forever and "vanish permanently" from Carol's life. Maniu therefore encouraged Carol's bid for the throne and hoped to effect a reconciliation between him and his estranged wife, Helen.

Maniu's action provoked a sharp counter-attack in the senate on the

Corn-Hog Contracts Slated To Show Gain

Ten times the number of Georgia farmers will sign corn-hog production control contracts for 1935 than did this year, in the opinion of Georgia agricultural officials, who with agricultural officials of eight other southern states were attending a training school in Atlanta Tuesday to learn terms of the 1935 corn-hog program proposed by the agricultural adjustment administration.

Georgia farmers this year signed only 560 contracts but officials stated they expected Georgia producers to sign approximately 5,500 of the corn-hog contracts in 1935.

Peggy Monroe Term Upheld in High Court

The court of appeals Tuesday affirmed the conviction and 19-to-20-year sentence imposed on Mrs. Peggy Monroe, of Augusta, for the slaying here two years ago of Jack Cason, a clothing salesman.

Mrs. Monroe shot and killed Cason in a downtown hotel. She was convicted of manslaughter by a jury in Fulton superior court and in its decision Tuesday the court of appeals held that the evidence was sufficient to support the verdict.

Judge Names Candler Receiver of Biltmore

William Candler became sole receiver of the Biltmore hotel Tuesday when Judge Virgil B. Moore accepted the resignation of William S. Akers, co-receiver, who gave as his reason for asking to be relieved of the receivership as pressure of other business.

Interested parties appeared before the court but no petition for a co-receiver to succeed Akers was presented. Candler had previously asked that he be permitted to continue as sole receiver, setting forth that he has put $6,000,000 into the enterprise.

GUN, CARTRIDGES MADE BY CONVICT PROVE EFFECTIVE

JACKSON, Mich., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Michigan state prison officials scored a bull's-eye Monday night with the first test shot fired from the home-made gun taken from Stephen Kalemman, Kalamazoo lifer, Saturday night when his capture ended a brief but long-contemplated dash for freedom.

Inspector Peter Gray Jr., son of the warden, and Inspector Don Beebe, who tested Kalemman's weapon on the prison rifle range, scored a bull's-eye from 20 feet on the first shot. Fearing an explosion, they placed the gun in a vise and tripped the trigger with a long cord.

Kalemman's gun, the prison officials said, consisted of a barrel of tubular steel, which in some way the convict had managed to rifle on the inside, a homemade firing chamber and a wooden handle.

Kalemman had 10 cartridges made from copper tubing. The homemade "powder," the inspectors believed, was made of match heads, cellulose obtained by soaking a deck of cards in water and some other highly combustible substance. This combination, they said, seemed to have all the force of gun powder. Kalemman had mounded his own lead bullets.

Mr. Jones suggests that clubs, Scout groups, Sunday schools, school classes or fraternities come in groups, so that the children will be with their friends, and will have an older person with them.

NIRA Board Member Preacher Given 7-Year Term For Perjury in Divorce Case

Three hundred are expected to hear the address by Arthur D. Whitehead, president of Dun & Bradstreet, and member of the national industrial recovery board, at a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 12:30 o'clock today.

Arriving from Washington this morning, Mr. Whitehead will speak on some current phases of the NIRA, which he has served since its inception under General Hugh Johnson. N. B. Raper, Madison, chairman of the forum, committee of the Chamber of Commerce, through whose efforts the speaker was obtained, will make a brief report on the committee's work just preceding Mr. Whitehead, who will be introduced by Ronald Hanson.

The invocation will be delivered by Dr. Edward C. Mackay, pastor of the First Methodist church. A special table will be set aside for Atlanta Princeton Club members, many of whom attended college with Mr. Whitehead. The speaker will leave for Washington directly after the luncheon, despite several invitations to extend his stay in the city.

Preacher Given 7-Year Term For Perjury in Divorce Case

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 18.—(AP)—W. D. Welburn Jr., former pastor of the Government Hill Methodist church here, was convicted of perjury by a jury reporting in district court this morning. The jury assessed his punishment at seven years in the state penitentiary.

Welburn, pictured by the defense, was "the victim of the most diabolical conspiracy ever perpetrated in Bexar county," denied in the divorce case last June that he had married Wineta Long Welburn. She was granted a divorce by the court.

The young minister contended that marriage papers had been forged and denied the claims of Mrs. Welburn that he was the father of her son.

State's attorneys attacked his story and the defense contention that Welburn's signature had been forged to marriage documents. W. J. Schlesinger, defense attorney, told the jury that Welburn was "a victim of circumstances" and that the case was "persecution and not protection."

THE NEW 1935 FORD V-8 TRUCK

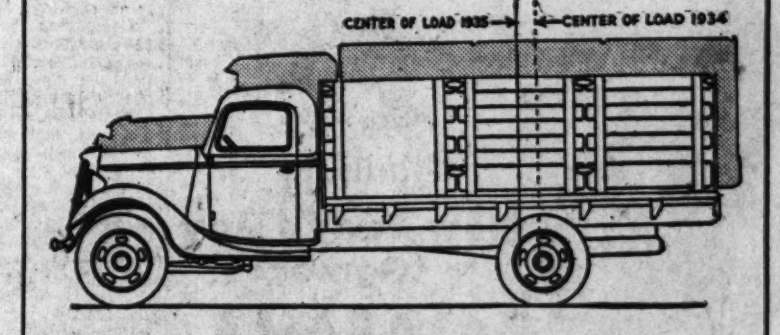

One hundred and twenty-five thousand Ford V-8 Trucks in use throughout the world have proved their right to the claim "America's great truck value." Because of this widespread acceptance, the entire production of Ford Truck engines is of the V-8 type.

To the proved design of the Ford V-8 Truck have been added the advantages of NEW load distribution which improves braking efficiency and results in more uniform tire and brake wear... NEW brakes that make stopping quicker and smoother with heavy loads... a NEW, larger clutch which operates on an entirely new principle... NEW Clear-Vision Ventilation, adjustable seat, wider cab and many other features that improve driver comfort... SAFETY GLASS IS STANDARD THROUGHOUT AT NO EXTRA COST... NEW cooling efficiency results from larger radiator and water pump impellers... NEW crankcase ventilation reduces corrosion and oil dilution... NEW skirted fenders and NEW cab design materially improve appearance.

But from your point of view, the most important question is: "What will this new truck do for me?" Your Ford dealer is ready to answer that question right NOW. He is so proud of this new truck... he is so confident of V-8 performance and V-8 economy that he will gladly arrange an "on-the-job" test for you if you are in the market for a new truck. Ask your Ford dealer to let you try a 1935 Ford V-8 Truck with your own loads... over your own routes... with your own driver at the wheel.

Then ask the price! Such performance and economy at a price so low will convince you once and for all that this 1935 Ford V-8 Truck is now more than ever AMERICA'S GREAT TRUCK VALUE!

The front spring and engine have been moved forward on the chassis, thus making it possible to move the body further forward. This arrangement reduces the amount of body overhang, permits more room in the cab, and moves the load-center forward. The distance from back of cab to center of rear axle is increased 6 1/4 inches. This new load distribution results in more efficient braking and more uniform tire and brake wear.

9TH WARDERS WIN BIG BROTHER CUPS

Major Merk, Captain Johnston, High Sellers for Wards and Teams.

Major H. L. Merk and Captain Lamar Johnston, both of the ninth ward, won the handsome silver cups offered by the Constitution in the sale of Big Brother papers, officials of the second annual Big Brother campaign announced Tuesday as final plans were being made for the Big Brother charity ball Thursday night at the Shrine Mosque.

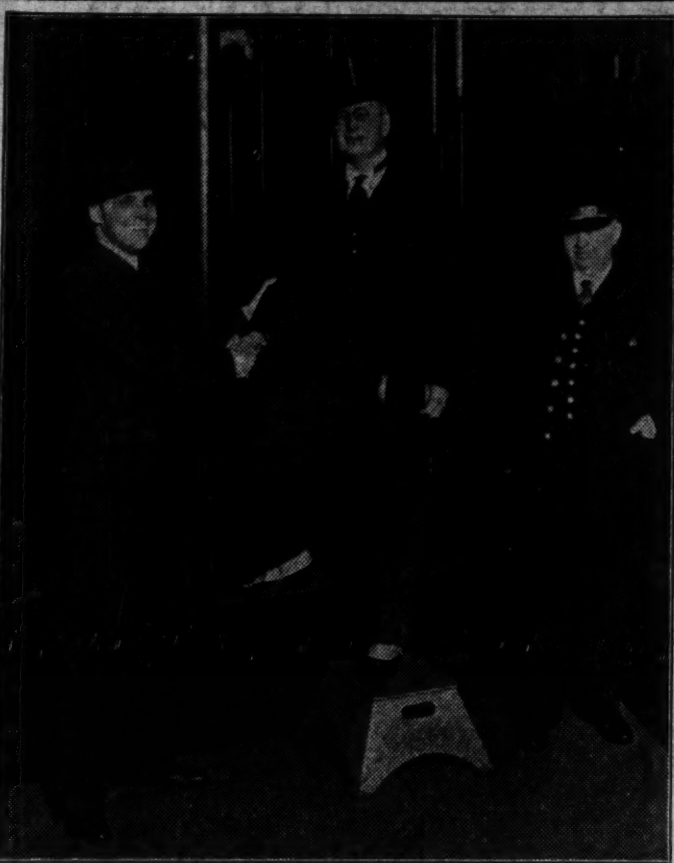

The loving cups will be officially presented Major Merk and Captain Johnston Thursday night at the ball by Co-Chairman W. J. Redfern. Though the race for the cups was hot among the ward majors and captains, Big Brothers Merk and Johnston came out on top. Merk's ward raised $231 and Captain Johnston's team sold $21 worth of the special Big Brother editions last Sunday morning, when the Big Brothers raised $2,000 to help make needy Atlantans' homes cheerful Christmas Day.

All ward majors and their men did splendid work but the efforts of the ninth ward Big Brothers brought them the cups for the second time, the same ward having won both last year in the campaign sponsored by The Constitution and the Atlant Post No. 1, American Legion.

Co-Chairman Redfern will make the official presentation just before the grand march of the Big Brothers at the ball which begins at 9 o'clock and will last until daylight. Colonel Franklin S. Chalmers will lead the march.

A gala affair which will be one of the outstanding social events of the year is promised by the Big Brothers and Atlantans are responding cheerfully to the sale of tickets, which cost $1. BROADWAY BILL

By MARK HELLINGER

INSTALLMENT IV.

"If you do, will you come back to Higginsville?"

Dan tried to evade Higginsville. "Say listen, if I can't win with 'Broadway Bill'—good heavens, it means I've—well, that I don't know a thing about horses. I should go back to paper boxes."

"Is that all Higginsville means to you? I'll be there, you know."

"Gee, I'm sorry. Of course, you'll be there. I'm so excited, I don't know what I'm saying half the time."

"That's all I want to know, Dan. I just want something to cling to—something to go on—if I know you're coming back, I promise me you'll come back, if you lose."

"Certainly! Certainly, I'll come back."

She folded against him, his arms going around her tightly. Suddenly Dan's head shot up. A horse had whinnied.

"Did you hear something?"

"Why, no—"

Again—the whinnying!

"It's 'Bill'!" Dan sprang towards the door.

Alice was calling now. A miracle had happened! "Bill's" eyes were bright. The horse was struggling to rise. Quickly, Dan dangled a bunch of carrots in front of the horse's nose. "Bill" scooped it up. "He's eating!" Dan shouted triumphantly.

Alice watched excitedly. "Gee, Dan—that's wonderful! He's sure to be all right by Saturday!"

But a new note sounded.

"Well, Dan—I think I'll be going."

It was Margaret.

Margaret had her promises—which was all she wanted. She was content to leave the dingy surroundings which encompassed her husband. She had her promise—and knew that Dan was a man of his word.

Another problem rose for Dan. "Bill" couldn't race for that five hundred dollar purse. Where, then, were they going to get the entrance fee to enter the horse in the big Handicap? Only one course. Dan gathered his forces about him. Alice, The Colonel, Happy, and Whitey. Something had to be done—by night-fall they had to have five hundred dollars.

Happy and the Colonel tried an old "con" trick. It worked, but the Colonel fell victim of his own cleverness and lost the money. He bet it on a horse that ran last. Whitey, on the very making of a small fortune when the cubes were discovered "loaded". Dan was luckier. He helped an auctioneer sell horses and the commissions made an imposing amount. Alice, not to be outdone, pawned her coat, and whatever else she could, and gave the money to Whitey with a strict admonition not to tell Dan from when the money had come.

A gathering of Dan's army that night revealed $510. The 10 was for celebrating. Which the army bravely attempted. Too many beers left Dan slightly wobbly. Happy escorted the Colonel home. Alice led Dan, who insisted he was taking Alice home, a long walk to the door of the present himself at a timely moment. It was better that Dan sit for a few moments.

THE moon, soft and glowing, brought a lovely radiance to the trees.

Dan sat close to Alice. "You know, I'm a very lucky fellow, Princess. Yep!"

"Your old man with the whiskers has certainly been good to you."

Dan grinned. "You bet. Look at me. Got everything. Got a great horse. Got a beautiful wife." He sighed. "And I've got your bosom to lay my weary head on." His head sank forward. Alice put her arm around his shoulder.

Alice's arms tightened around him. For a fleeting moment she could pretend—pretend he belonged to her. Her cheek brushed his hair.

"Princess—"

"Yes?"

"You're all right. You're not really a Higgins, are you?"

"I'm afraid so."

"You've been some mistake. You're a throw-back or something. Must have some real nice people in your family. Pirates, or something."

He chuckled. "Huh! If you Margaret seeing me in this condition. Drunk, I mean. She'd glower... and glower... and—"

"Huh?"

"If you lose the race tomorrow, what's going to happen?"

"What did you want to bring that up for? You're an old kill-joy. We're not going to lose. Mustn't lose. Can't lose. Not if you wish hard enough. Know what I believe?"

"What?" Alice looked up at the soft moon.

"You can wish for something so hard, you can wish it into existence. Try that sometime."

Alice's voice broke. "I—I've tried that—lots of times."

Dan straightened. "Never fails!"

"Never fails! Sometimes things look black—impossible—and then suddenly it happens. Why? People say: 'Look—a miracle.' But it's not."

"No. Somebody's been wishing real hard, that's all." His head sank forward on his bosom again. "Look at Margaret—didn't she win? Not the least bit. Some day I'm gonna wish her into it. All she wants is to make a big business man out of me. Make me the Emperor. Huh! If you were a man what would you do to get a woman to love you? Huh? You wouldn't know. Nobody knows. All you can do is wish."

Alice's eyes were misty, her heart heavy. "How—how about wishing ourselves home?"

Dan's head snapped up. "Home! Oh, yes, I know. Sure sure."

Staggering, Dan's heavy weight on his shoulder, Alice managed to get him to his feet. They started through the night.

They approached the barn. Alice, supporting Dan, swung open the creaking door. Dan turned pale. There was a long still moment. "Broadway Bill" was gone. The stall was empty.

"Mr. Brooks! Mr. Brooks!"

It was Whitey. "They took him! They took him away! Fanning. Whitey dashed up to Dan.

"Who?"

"Mr. Jones—the feed man! He was here with the sheriff. Had an attachment—some such."

"An attachment?"

"Yassuh. Just walked in with the papers and took him. It was terrible. Boss, the way they were jerkin' him. Had his neck tied to a rope, and pulled him behind a car. Over cobblestones an' everything."

"Good heavens, they'll kill him! Where'd they take him?"

"Dunno. Boss. They was goin' as fast I couldn't catch up."

Dan was sober now. Grimly sober. "I'll find him." He dashed down the road.

Alice started after him. "Dan! Dan! Dan, where are you going? Dan!"

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

"A CHRISTMAS CAROL."

Perhaps there is no other Christmas story which has been more widely read than "A Christmas Carol." It was written 91 years ago by Charles Dickens, famous English author.

One by one, during the night, the three spirits came. The first to show him the barren way in which he had spent his time, and the folly of his present life. The second spirit took him to the dwelling of Bob Cratchit, an underpaid clerk who worked for Scrooge. Mr. Cratchit and his family were poor, but all were friendly and loving. Even a little lame son, Tiny Tim, was cheerful as he could be.

Scrooge had other adventures when taken out by the spirits. He was even allowed to see the future, to look in upon his own death, and to learn that none would mourn his passing.

At last Scrooge awoke from his dream, or whatever it had been. He awoke on a new Christmas Day, and he was happy to be alive. Yet he kept the memory of the night, and it seemed to change him into a new man. Quickly he rushed to the house of Bob Cratchit, and told him he would give him back-payments for his work, and more besides.

In years which followed, Scrooge proved fair in his dealings, and was kindly toward people in general. Perhaps the best of all, he was friendly and helpful to the little lame boy, Tiny Tim.

Miss Ware Weds Dr. Venable At Emory University Chapel

The marriage of Miss Louise Ware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Ware, to Dr. John H. Venable, was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Emory University chapel at an impressive service performed by the bridegroom's father, Dr. G. F. Venable, before an assemblage of relatives and friends, including a number of out-of-town guests.

The beauty of the interior of the church was emphasized by the floral decorations which included an attractive arrangement of palms, foliage plants and Easter lilies. Cathedral candelabra holding white, slender tapers added a soft glow to the impressive scene.

Prior to the service a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Marie Green, of this city, and Miss Clara Knox Nunnally, of Monroe, vocalists; Mrs. Sidney Wilson, pianist, and Henry Heinz Jr., violinist.

Acting as ushers were Felker Lewis, of Monroe and Atlanta; Henry Heinz, of this city; Dr. Joyce F. Mixson, of Valdosta; and William L. Heinz, of Columbia, S. C.

Miss Rosalind Ware, sister of the bride, was her only attendant and she wore an exquisite gown of heavenly blue chiffon velvet fashioned with floor-length skirt and close-fitting bodice. Sprays of silver leaves and small pink roses made of metal cloth trimmed the shoulders of the lovely gown. Her hat was of matching velvet fashioned over the face and trimmed with silver and pink flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink bouvardia encircled by Johanna Hill roses and tied with blue velvet ribbon.

Lovely Bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, C. R. Ware, was wearing in ivory satin, the striking gown fashioned along straight, close-fitting lines and trimmed with rose point lace on the shoulders, the lovely lace being that which trimmed the wedding gown of her mother. A panel effect of the satin was introduced at the back and extended into a long, graceful train. A cap of real lace which had also trimmed her mother's wedding dress, was caught to her hair by tiny clusters of orange blossoms, which held the billowy tulle veil that reached to the end of her train. Her bouquet was formed of white bouvardia and valley lilies showered with valley lilies and tied with wide white satin ribbon. Dr. Allen Logan, of Miami, Fla., acted as the bridegroom's best man.

Mrs. C. R. Ware, the bride's mother, was attired in wine-colored velvet trimmed with gold metal cloth and she wore a velvet hat to match adorned with gold ornament. Her shoulder bouquet was formed of tallman roses. Mrs. G. F. Venable, mother of the bridegroom, was wearing in black crepe trimmed in silver and her hat was of black velvet. She wore a shoulder cluster of Johanna Hill roses.

Dr. Venable and his bride left in the early evening for a wedding trip and upon their return after the holidays they will make their home with Mrs. E. T. Booth, on Oakdale road.

For traveling, the bride wore a modish suit of wine-colored wool, trimmed with beaver collar. She carried a small beaver fur muff and her hat was of brown felt.

Out-of-Town Guests.

Included in the list of out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. George W. Felker Sr., Mrs. Lena Felker Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Felker Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Felker, George Felker III, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nunnally, Miss Clara Knox Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Walker Lewis, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. William Heinz, of Columbia, S. C.; Miss Elise Jones, of Gainesville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Stans, of Gainesville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hollingsworth, of Fayetteville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mayne and Miss Mary Mayne, of Windsor, Ga.; Mrs. I. L. Oakes, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Clower, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Hood, Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Kelley, of Lawrenceville, and Dr. and Mrs. Joyce Mixson, of Valdosta.

Girls' Cotillion Club Members Give Brilliant Silhouette Ball

Silhouettes adorned panels encircled the ballroom at the Piedmont Driving Club, where black and white was featured at the silhouette ball given last evening by members of the Girls' Cotillion Club. Brilliant in every detail was this annual dance, which inaugurated the gay festivities for the Christmas season. Either black or white evening gowns were worn by the feminine guests, carrying out the chosen motif. Invited for this affair were members of the younger married contingent and a group of young men, as no unmarried girls are eligible for invitations except sisters of members and out-of-town guests.

Officers Lead Ball.

Miss Maime Raine, president of the club, with her escort, led the intricate figure in which members of the club and an equal number of young men participated, and she was assisted by the other officers with their escorts. To add an effective note to the figure each girl carried a tiny muff made of black and white tulle and adorned with a spray of white pompon chrysanthemums. Miss Raine was a lovely figure in her gown of shimmering white satin, cut on effectively plain lines and closely moulded to her slender figure. A high cowl neckline in the front and low décolletage in the back were becoming features of the gown, which was banded at the waist by a rhinestone belt.

Black velvet trimmed with bands of luxurious white fur fashioned the striking gown worn by Miss Helen Bivings, vice president, and chairman of the dance committee. A wide band of the fur was used on the skirt at knee length, and other wide bands of the fox encircled the armholes of the gown. Miss Elizabeth Thompson, secretary, wore a model of white crepe made on fitted lines. A flat bow of silver ribbon marked the neckline in front, and the wide belt of silver ribbon was caught with a rhinestone bowknot. Miss Boyce Loker, treasurer, wore a stunning gown of white chiffon moulded to her figure and trimmed at the front neckline with a becoming cluster of flowers fashioned of the same material. Soft ruffles cascaded from the waistline to the floor in the back, lending fullness to the graceful skirt.

Clusters of black and white balloons were suspended from the orchestra balcony and used throughout the ballroom in decoration. A highlight of the evening came when the balloons, each of which was numbered, were released and prizes were awarded, the ladies' prize being a large bottle of perfume, while the men's prize was a handsome silk dressing gown.

At the eastern end of the ballroom a huge shadow screen was erected, trimmed at the edges with black, and at intervals when new members of the club were introduced as her name was called, each girl stepped behind the screen throwing her silhouette in relief. Supper was served at midnight from buffet tables placed at either side of the ballroom and effectively decorated in black and white, through the courtesy of Rich's, Inc., who assisted with all the decorations.

Adorning each table there was a strip of silver alcohol which ran the entire length of the table. Mirrored pedestals centered the table and held white glass fruit, and clusters of the fruit were arranged on the silver runner. A popular orchestra furnished music, and as souvenirs of the occasion, each guest was presented with a silhouette fashioned by an artist who erected his studio in the loggia and greeted the guests upon their arrival.

Miss Sharpe Fetes Debutantes at Party.

Miss Lundy Sharp was hostess on Tuesday afternoon at an appetizing party at her home on Seventeenth street complementing a group of debutantes, including Misses Frances Haven, Mary Spalding Dean and Florie Adkins and Suzanne Knox. The entertainment is one of a series of interesting entertainments planned in compliment to these admired members of the debutante coterie.

Crimson berries graced the spacious drawing room, and adorned the living room and hall. In the dining room the elegantly appointed table was centered with a low bowl holding crimson roses encircled by antique silver candelabra with tall red tapers. The punch bowl was embedded in crimson berries combined with red roses. Guests included the members of the Debutante Club and the mothers of the honor guests, including Mrs. Harrison Hines, Mrs. Frank S. Dean, Mrs. Fitzhugh Knox and Miss Adkins' aunt, Mrs. Edgar Pomeroy.

'Biff' Jones Resigns as Head Coach at Louisiana State

It was just last spring and the tall frame of Mr. Lester Stoeven was draped over a chair in one of our best hotel rooms. "I am never going to become a tennis bum," he said, "and besides there is my education. I am going ahead and get that whatever happens. But right now I want to see what I can do with that tennis."

"But you are going ahead with your education?" asked one of the scribes, who was chinning himself on Mr. Stoeven's words, so to speak.

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Stoeven. "I have a year's leave of absence from the University of Southern California and then I am going back."

At that time some of the critics were tearing into the United States Lawn Tennis Association, claiming that it made tennis bums of its amateurs by keeping them on the go for about 10 months of the 12 in each year.

So what happens? Nothing much. Except that Mr. Lester Stoeven is now listed as plain Lester Stoeven in the programs, having turned square, as the boys say, and signed a professional contract.

He will never go back to the University of California but will become a tennis professional and make something like $30,000 this year and next. He will be good for about four years of it and maybe he will save his money and put it away in good bonds and maybe he won't.

Mr. George Lott and Mr. Stoeven won the doubles championship for the United States in the Davis cup matches last year and now Mr. Lott is just plain George Lott, having signed a professional contract.

Mr. Lott, as soon as he was George Lott, spoke with his tongue in cheek:

"I didn't come here in a Pullman," said Lott, "but I wish it to be known that I am very grateful to the U. S. L. T. A. They put me where I am. I will miss all the free food and the free laundry and the English lawn parties at Wimbledon during the tournament week; the veranda cocktail soires at Sea Bright and Southampton; the swimming pools on Long Island; the trips to Australia and Europe in big steamers; and winter along the Riviera, and other social affairs. But I'm glad to be going into the professional game. Just a big business man now."

It was brought out in Mr. Lott's words during his retirement that he and his mates played tennis about 10 months out of each 12. They received free meals, food and something over expense money and supported themselves with their tennis.

This was called amateur tennis. This year the U. S. L. T. A. announces it will not permit any more tennis bums to be made and will permit its members to travel and support themselves with tennis for no more than two months in each year.

I don't suppose it matters. I recall some matches here when some of the amateurs wanted another $50 before they'd go on. It seems there had been some race horse bets.

Stoeven has forgot that education. If he makes $30,000 a year for several years, he won't need it. But if he is washed up in that many years he will wish he had started out with his class in college and got something inside his skull.

I think it is these rainy days which makes me this way. I really do not care if the U. S. L. T. A. turns out tennis bums as a sausage factory turns out frankfurters.

VINCENT VAN GOGH.

I am also a bit groggy from a cold and from having sat up until 3:30 in the morning to finish a book called "Lust for Life" in which is told the very fine story of Vincent Van Gogh, the great Dutch artist who could do more with color than any other man, unless it was Cezanne. And I am sure he had Cezanne defeated.

I am sorry I did not know this Van Gogh. He makes the late Sir Walter Raleigh look like a bum when it comes to chivalry.

A young lady named Rachel admired Mr. Van Gogh's ears. They were delicate and round. She admired them tremendously.

The next day Mr. Van Gogh, his head swathed

LITTLE BLAZES GOLFING TRAIL IN PAST SEASON

Record "Little Slam." Cotton Takes British Open From U. S.

By Bob Cavanaugh.

Associated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—He can't be called a second Bobby Jones, but the manner of William Lawson Little's sweep of the amateur golf throne in 1933, the nearest thing yet to the redoubtable Georgian's "Grand Slam" of 1930.

Little's sweep of this year's American and British amateur championships, facetiously yet correctly termed a "Little Slam," made him the third golfer to win both titles in the same year. Jones did it in 1930 and Harold Hilton, a Briton, turned the trick in 1911.

VAN WIE REPEATS.

Overshadowed by Little's double triumph, there were, however, notable achievements through the year—the sensational victory of Henry Cotton, the first Briton to win the British open since 1925; Olin Dutra's triumph in the National open, which he had been overlooked in the early rounds; Virginia Van Wie's retention of the women's championship for the second year to become the fourth woman in history to win the title three times in succession; Paul Runyan's gobbling up of more than $7,000 during the "winter" season, the longest period and triumph in the National professional match play tournament, and the successful defenses of international trophies by the American Walker Cup and Curtis cup teams.

After the United States Walker cup forces defeated the English, 9-1-2 to 2-1-2, for the eighth straight triumph, the invaders stormed Frederick in Scotland for the British amateur. George Terry Dunlap Jr. and blond Johnny Goodman, then reigning American amateur and open kings, were the topheavy favorites to snare the British title with Little's chances of victory only slightly better than average.

LITTLE'S GREAT RECORD.

Little's ultimate victory over Wallace by the lopsided margin of 14 and 13 was the biggest winning margin for any major match-play championship in his 68 in the morning round was the lowest score in the history of the tournament and broke the Prestwick course record.

Favored by the draw in the United States winter championship, the historic Brookline, Little marched through to the title without a single difficult match. He finally won the title defeating Dave Grier, 1-0, in the final, 8 and 7. This was the first all-match-play National amateur championship in 31 years.

IT'S ALL IN THE START.

The scores turned by Henry Cotton in the first three rounds of the British open made it a one-man show. He opened with a 67 and then stuck in a 65. He followed these with a 72 on the morning of the final day to establish a lead of nine strokes. For 12 holes on the final round he faltered, but standing on the 13th tee he pulled himself together and finished with a 70 for an aggregate of 283 and a winning margin of five strokes. Sid Brown, of South Africa, was second with 288.

The 1934 American open was aptly termed the "Merion Merry-Ground." Olin Dutra, the big California, sneaked in with a fourth-round 72 for a total of 292 to nose out Sarazen, who had 293, and dashed the title hopes of Cruickshank, Cox and Cooper with 295 each.

Miss Van Wie overcame a stubborn and capable youngster, Dorothy Traung, to keep the National women's title in a match played in rain. Runyan defeated Craig Wood one up on the 18th hole at Buffalo to win the P-G-A crown.

Holm won the British women's, defeating youthful Pam Barton. Scotty Campbell, of Seattle, won the Canadian amateur for the second year in a row while the Maple Leaf's open title was annexed by Tommy Armour.

Zell Eaton, of Oklahoma City, won the Western amateur, the open title going to Harry Cooper, and Charlie Yates, of Georgia Tech, captured the intercollegiate crown.

Preparatory to taking a holiday during the Christmas holidays, from their regular league bowling, the Gulf Refining Company duckpinners will be all pepped up for their three league games tonight.

The two teams of ladies are making the men's eight teams bustle to win games each Wednesday. The friendly rivalry that exists between these co-workers of the Gulf stimulates interest and injects a hypochondria that keeps interest alive at all times.

Tonight, Gulf No-Nox bowls Gulf Solvent; Gulf Gies ties up with Gulf Oil; Gulf Pride meets Gulf Furnace; Gulf Aviation meets Gulf Purnace; Good Gulf plays Gulf Spray.

Anderson's Flower Shop and A. L. Zachry packed in a big crowd on the tennis alleys to watch the final 10 Southern railway employees that constitutes the rosters of the two teams compete against one another. De Rose and Corbett are the captains.

Tri-State Construction Company bowls Fox Manufacturing Company; Atlanta Paper Company ties up with Norris Candy Company; Graybar Electric is slated to bowl Southeastern Brewing Company; Southern Freight-Tariff Bureau meets Excelsior Laundry in the Capital City Duckpin league.

Captain Lucy, of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer team, has his second bowling consistent scores in the Motion Picture Duckpin circuit each Tuesday evening. Members of the team include Larrid, Scruggs, Mitchell, Goldsmith, Clarke.

The Cavaliers, Fort McPherson, Acres, Foxys, Specials, Atlanta Grinding Company, Muech & Elmer and Woco-Peppers will be matched in the City Tenpin loop.

Charlie Biggers, of the Aristocrat Dairies, conquered the jinx that has had him splitting the head pin with regularity each Tuesday, rolling games of 120 and 110 as the Aristocrat Dairies chalked up some big scores.

In the Ladies' Commercial league, Bick's Bowling Center meets Southwestern Railway; Belle Isle Grange plays Atlanta Paper Company; Atlanta Journal ties up with Downtown Chevrolet; Pinson Tire Company and Model Laundry will be matched.

LONDOS BEATS ORVILLE BROWN IN TOUGH BOUT

Crowd of Around 4,000 Sees Bout at Auditorium; Chewacki Beaten.

It took a total of eight crushing backdrops, as administered by Champion Jim Londos himself, to subdue young Orville Brown, rugged Kansas wrestler, in the star match of Henry Weber's final mat-card of the 1934 season before some 4,000 fans at the auditorium Tuesday night. Brown failed to win a fall, but gave the champion one of the most grueling matches he has ever had in an Atlanta ring.

The once terrible Chief Chewacki tried all his bar of tricks on Dave Roche, brownie Scranton (Pa.) matman, in the semi-final, but they weren't good enough and Roche took the big Indian in straight falls. George Brown, bearded Russian middleweight, was much too good for Pat Brown in the opener, pinning him twice with body slams and body blocks in the half hour time limit.

Punishing the champion severely with armlocks and a particularly vicious hammerlock which he held for five minutes, Brown gave a splendid account of himself in the first fall. For a youngster who was facing the ruler of the mat world for the first time, Orville showed commendable coolness, refusing to allow himself to become irritated at the obvious efforts of Londos to get his goat.

Several times the champion was forced to make for the ropes as the crowd, solidly behind the handsome young challenger, hooted his derision. Brown used a body scissors and split effectively during this fall and really had the better of the going, despite the fact that Londos resorted to unusually rough tactics. The end came in 42 minutes when the Greek secured the backdrop grip and slammed Brown to the canvas five times in succession.

The youngster was still dazed when they came back for the second fall. Londos made for the ropes as the crowd, solidly behind the handsome young challenger, hooted his derision. Thornhill was counting the hours until his Stanford football team would be through final examinations—and ready to go to work.

"Most of the boys will be finished by Thursday noon," he said, "and we're going to work Thursday afternoon. Friday and Saturday we'll have two practices daily, and they're going to have to be hard ones to get in shape for that game."

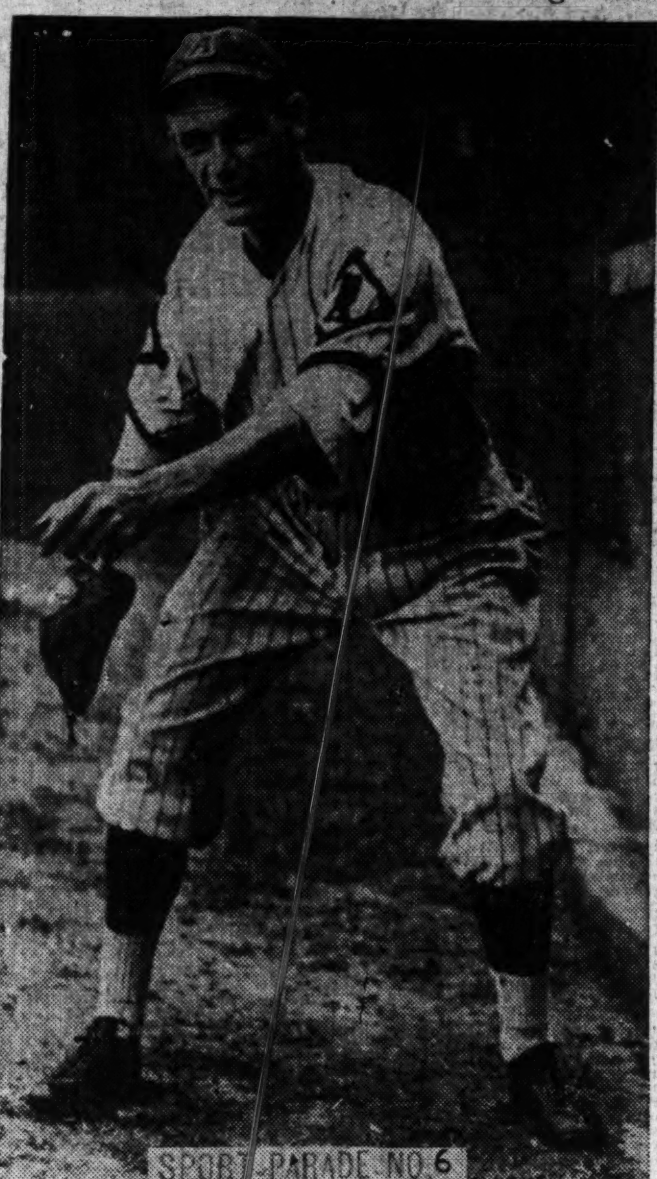

Thornhill, after being at a loss for a long time as to what details feature the Alabama offense, at last has adequate information on Coach Frank Thomas' men, he admitted today.

"Are you still wondering what sort of plays Alabama uses?" he was asked. "Good, no!" he laughed. "All kinds of Stanford friends have sent in information. We're not worrying much about that any more. We're more concerned now about that big Alabama line."

If the Crimson Tide forwards are as big as reputed, Thornhill said, Stanford probably would be throwing plenty of passes.

THE SPORT PARADE

—20 Years Later—After 19 Straight

Back in 1912, a tall, willowy, wry-necked left-hander startled the baseball world by winning 19 straight games for the New York Giants to tie Tim Keefe's old record. You might like to know how the famous Rube looked just 20 years later, when the same wry left arm pitched Atlanta to a victory over Little Rock in the Southern league. Here is the Rube of 1932, warming up for his final league start. In the last year Marquard, still looking about 25, has been working in pari-mutuel cages along New England tracks. (Acme photo). Miss Muriel Cowan Pinehurst Plans Queen of Roses Steeplechase Race

KENTUCKY SEES FIRST ROUND OF TITLE FIGHT LEADS THRILLS

Coach Rupp Admits Wildcats Have Great Possibilities.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Wildcats of the University of Kentucky, favorites for the basketball championship of the Southeastern conference, seem to be headed for another championship season.

Even their coach, Adolph Rupp, admits it. "Yes, I'm afraid we're going to have another good team," signed the redoubtable Rupp as he watched the Cats defeat the Oglethorpe University quintet by the startling score of 81 to 12 here last week.

Not many coaches who had lost two 1933 all-conference players such as Free-Wheeling Demosiey and Little Bill Davis from the team could face the future with confidence. But, in the opinion of those who have seen the 1934 edition of the Wildcats in action, Kentucky won't even miss those two stars.

Last year's first-string Wildcat lineup included Lawrence and Tucker at forward; Demosiey at center, and Davis and Anderson at guard. The starting lineup this year is Lawrence and Tucker at forward; Edwards at center, and Anderson and Donohue at guard. Demosiey was lost to the squad through graduation; Davis is out of school and is not expected back.

BIG CENTER. Edwards, the sophomore center of the 1934 team, stands 6.5. He seems destined not only to control the tip-off, but he is a deadly scorer. He is a native of Indiana.

The new guard, Donohue, also is a sophomore from Louisville. Many believe his floor work is even better than that of the brilliant Davis—and his basket-shooting eye has proved equal to that of "Little Bill."

The complete schedule follows:

December 21—Tulane at New Orleans.
December 22—Tulane at New Orleans.

TULANE WORKS IN HARD RAIN

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—In a mire of mud and showers of rain, Tulane's football squad was sent through a second day of practice for the New Year's Temple Sugar Bowl game.

Twenty-three regulars reported for practice and were sent through drills and dummy scrimmage. Hard scrimmage will be in order this week with freshmen used as bumpers for the varsity.

The interest of the squad and Tulane supporters was centered on the doctor's verdict on the shoulder injury of "Little Monk" Simons, Tulane's star around which most of the touchdown plays have been pointed. An X-ray will be made of the shoulder tomorrow and the doctor and the Tulane trainer, who is "Little Monk's" father, will decide if he can play in the game.

If he is out of the game Coach Ted Cox will be forced to work in new plays as he has been depending on the hard, slashing running of Simons. Substitutes for Simons depend on speed and power in offense.

Simons also has been the main cog in the passing and punting attack. The loss of Simons, All-Southern back, would be a blow to the squad, but the coaches are ready to rebuild the team if he is out.

Japanese Pros Meet Americans

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 18.—(AP)—George A. Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, today announced arrangement had been completed for a series of tournaments throughout the country between the first team of Japanese professionals and American teams.

Jacobus said the Japan Golf Association would select the six leading Nippon professionals and an English-speaking manager as the first official representatives of Japanese golf ever sent out of the far east.

Besides an international match the Japanese will play against P. G. A. inter-sectional teams and in open tournaments, including the United States open.

Arkansas Hunters Urged To Kill Hawks

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Governor J. Marion Futrell said a week ago he believed every quail hunter should be required to show evidence he had killed a hawk before he was granted a hunting license, and said a bill to that effect would be introduced in the Arkansas legislature.

Baer's Opening Assault Against Carnera Wins in Poll.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Of the thousand and one electrifying sports incidents that brought millions of fans to their feet screaming with excitement during the year 1934, that thundering first round of the Baer-Carnera fight was the most thrilling.

That's the consensus of opinion among the nation's sports editors, commentators of thrills, as expressed today in a United Press poll participated in by 308 editors in all sections.

Most of the 111 editors who voted for the Baer-Carnera first round best believe that this season will go down in history as a thrill rival to the wild Dempsey-Firpo brawl in 1933.

They emphasized the comment, accompanying their ballots, that the opening frame of the 1934 heavyweight championship battle, fought beneath a June moon in Madison Square Garden's great Long Island sacker, had all the elements necessary to lash the hearts of spectators.

Attention of sports followers in every country was concentrated on the fight because of the international angle and because the ring's richest prize, the world championship, was at stake. Moreover, a modern David, the comparatively small Maxie Baer, who had been branded physically unfit to fight, was trying to regain for the United States the crown from Primo Carnera, of Italy, a towering Goliath who was the largest man ever to hold the title.

Suddenly Little Maxie lashed out; his looping right swing smashed into Carnera's lofty jaw. Carnera swayed and then crashed to the canvas. He was up again, pursued by snarling Maxie. Wham! Another crash to the floor. This time Carnera rose and galloped drunkenly about the ring like a startled horse. Maxie pursued him. In his bewilderment Carnera plunged halfway through the ropes twice. Another ax-swing to the head felled Primo again. He rose and was being battered about the ring at the bell. Meanwhile the 50,000 fans in the bowl were screaming in a frenzy of excitement. As far as they were concerned, the fight was over.

Maxie Baer was new champion. It wasn't necessary for eight more trips to the canvas in the remaining 10 rounds, climaxed by Referee Arthur Donovan's merciful intervention.

The second ranking thrill during 1934, according to the editors, came when Slade Cutter's mud-encrusted boot sent a football soaring through the goal posts for a field goal at Philadelphia in the first quarter of the Army-Navy game. This gave Navy its first victory over the Cadets in 18 years.

Thirty-eight editors cast their ballots for Cutter's kick.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Kenneth Rice

THE AGE OF QUICKNESS.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Robert W. Zupke, the sage of Illinois, is a great believer in quickness. "We hear too much about speed in football," he says. "Quickness is more important—quickness of feet, hands and head. A slow starter may have speed, after he gets under way. But he doesn't often get under way."

"What is the age of quickness?" I asked. "Stamina comes after 25 or 26. Most marathon runners, the good ones, are in between 26 and 35. But what about quickness?"

"The age of quickness," Zupke said, "is from 19 to 23. This is where suppleness and agility reach their top marks. Later on there can be speed, but natural quickness begins to decline."

"I had to get by with quickness this year," Zupke said. "My football team ranged from 155 to 180—180 was my heaviest man. We were out-weighted from 10 to 20 pounds in almost every game, and yet lost only one start. I like quick men—quick movers—quick thinkers. I can't use lumbering giants. I'd much rather have a quick 150-pounder than a slow 220-pounder."

A good example of this is the Four Horsemen, who averaged 158 pounds, the lightest big-time backfield in history—and one of the greatest.

The Case of Red Grange.

"Red Grange," the Illinois coach continued, "was not only quick but fast on his feet. Grange had a way of picking his openings, timing his charges, but, when the opening came, he was through life a flash. He could run the hundred in 10 flat in a football suit. Back at Illinois he was one of the fastest men in a football suit I ever saw—faster than track men who could do 9.7 in a track suit."

"Red also had one of the quickest competitive minds I've ever known. He could size up a situation in a flash, and action was almost instantaneous with thought. It was like setting fire to a pile of powder. Grange never lost his head—no matter what the situation. In the famous Chicago game he was cornered and practically surrounded twice by four or five tacklers, and yet worked his way out for long runs. It was marvelous to see Red time a tackler—or out-time him, changing his pace to meet the situation."

Tied at 68 were three others—Al Watrous, of Birmingham, Mich.; Willie MacFarlane, of Oakridge, N. Y.; and Archie Hambrick, of French Lick, Ind.

Tied for fifth place with a 67 each were Leo Fraser, of Saginaw, Mich.; John Golden, of Noroton, Conn.; and L. P. Schaak, of Hamilton, Ohio.

Olin Dutra, American cup champion and pre-tournament favorite, was grouped with four others at par 68. They were Bobby Cruikshank, of Richmond, Va.; Leonard Dodson, of Springfield, Mo.; Tony Longo, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; and Mike Turnesa, of Elmford, N. Y.

THE BREAK OF DAY

in bandages, called around and handed the young lady a package. She opened it and promptly fell in a swoon. Mr. Van Gogh had cut off one of his small, round ears and brought it to her as a keepsake.

All this has no sport angle, except that when I finally went to sleep I dreamed that Mr. William Alexander, at Georgia Tech, had become engaged to Miss Greta Garbo and we were all rushing around trying to get pictures and a story and a fellow kept calling up every five minutes saying it wasn't true.

Yesterday afternoon I saw Mr. Alexander. "What do you know?" I asked. "Not a thing," said Mr. Alexander.

So I guess that is all right. At any rate, I recommend the Van Gogh book and one of his prints to hang on the wall. He knew color. He had more color than Dixie Howell, the Alabama halfback.

CONGRATULATIONS, MR. JONES.

Captain Lawrence (Biff) Jones has very properly resigned as head coach at L. S. U., following a very uncouth performance by The Kingfish. It now remains to be seen just what sort of person will accept the job as head coach at L. S. U. Captain Jones brought them from nowhere to a position of eminence.

The Kingfish is quoted, perhaps incorrectly, as saying: "We will get us a coach who won't lose no games and who won't even tie none." The Kingfish is a United States senator. Rome was the nation which first instituted the senate. (See Gibbons' Decline and Fall.)

At any rate, Captain Jones is to be congratulated on taking the proper step. It will be interesting to watch the decline and fall at L. S. U. and in Louisiana. They will lose more games next year. Action by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be anticipated rather eagerly. They are investigating the political rule at L. S. U.

THE MCGUGIN DINNER.

Because of the trip with Alabama to the coast it will be impossible to attend a testimonial dinner for Dan McGugin at Nashville on December 21.

McGugin, for 30 years head coach at Vanderbilt, is perhaps the outstanding man in southern football's history.

There is no littleness in the man, in his thought or action. It required the rest of the field a good many years to catch up with him. He was never jealous, never bitter, never anything except a big-hearted, kind gentleman and a great coach.

Dow-Jones Averages

By THE UNITED PRESS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—

Conflicting clouds blurred the financial picture today and the speculative galleries were not inclined to view the scene with any marked enthusiasm.

The majority of stocks filled about in an extremely narrow range, with the market generally steady, although occasionally attention seemed to be attracted to a few of the merchandise shares and scattered specialties.

There were also several new highs for the year recorded despite the reigning apathy.

Turnover in equities dropped to 7,000 shares, against 9,000 yesterday, and the Standard Statistics Company average for 90 selected issues registered a decline of two-tenths of a point at 72.7.

While there was still some inflationary talk in the financial district, and leading foreign exchanges rallied substantially against the dollar, prime investment bonds showed no signs that these mutterings were being taken seriously. As secondary loans exhibited somewhat of a heavy tone, highest grade loans maintained a firm front.

United States government securities had their best day in several weeks.

Grains dipped and rallied nervously, but the principal wheat and corn options managed to close 1/8 to 1/4 of a cent a bushel higher. Cotton was about as erratic, ending 15 cents a bale lower to 35 cents improved.

The merchandising stocks again drew modest followings on indications the holiday trade would be the most prosperous in some time.

Gainers of the day included 2 points, at new tops for 1934, around McCrory Stores preferred and common, Industrial Rayon, J.C. Penney, United Stores, Rayon Publishing preferred and Caterpillar Tractor.

American Can and Liggett & Myers B improved a point or so and various 10-share unit preferred shares pushed upward 1 1/2 to 2 points or more on only a few transfers.

The oils and the rails held to a restricted groove throughout and such old-line leaders as American Telephone, United States Steel, Anaconda, Western Union, Goodyear, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, General Electric and a host of others shifted only fractionally in either direction.

The only real show of activity during the day was when a block of 7,000 shares of Radio-Kath-Orenth appeared on the tape for a small gain, and there was a single transfer of 2,700 shares of General Electric at a minor decline.

TARZAN AND THE LION MAN No. 81

When the giant gorilla seized the girl, he pulled her roughly toward the door. "Come with me," he ordered. "The Maker has sent for you!" And Rhonda, Tarzan was led forth to the mysterious precincts of "Heaven," to the strange creature whom the gorilla called the God and Maker...

It was in the afternoon of that same day that Naomi Madison, too, was captured by the gorilla. Buckingham it was who seized her when her Arab captors were being slaughtered by the cruel army of shaggy warriors. And now he bore her away into the forest above the gorilla city.

Buckingham was mystified. He thought this girl was the same one he had taken prisoner several days ago at the falls. And this morning he had seen her taken to the castle of The Maker. Of course he had no means of knowing that Naomi and Rhonda were doubles in form and features.

Naomi, hanging in the hollow of his arm, was frozen with horror. The Arabs had seemed dead enough, but this repulsive brute! She wondered when and how he would kill her. But the gorilla had no intention of killing a creature so pleasant to look upon and so valuable to his rulers.
